Senator Hill's Recent Letter on the Silver Question Severely Criticized.

A Veteran Observer of Great Facts on the Inter-Oceanic Canal.

BLACKMAILER ROUGHLY HANDLED.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

New York, Jan 15.—The [illegible] says: [illegible] The recent fall in silver again brings us face to face with the absolute failure of the silver [illegible] accomplishing the object it was [illegible] of it, when it was passed that it would steady [illegible] of silver and cause it to approach the ratio adopted in the laws. It has not [illegible] of fluctuating value, and has finally [illegible] heavily in the market. Whether it will regain its former value or not its unsteadiness [illegible] and has not been prevented by law. [illegible] urged in defense of the law that it would [illegible] other commercial nations to follow our example [illegible] upon their mints to the coinage of silver, [illegible] upon a ratio of silver with gold. Nothing of the sort has happened. No nation [illegible] given the slightest sign of any [illegible] or desire to do what we have done or are [illegible] doing, and there is no indication of [illegible] agreement as to the ratio of silver with [illegible]. We are left alone to carry on our expensive [illegible] long after it has ceased to be an experiment [illegible] has proved itself to be a complete failure. [illegible] the extent of its mischievous effects was [illegible] the demand for silver certificates with [illegible] pay customs dues and with which to make [illegible] in distant portions of the country for [illegible] other form of paper currency could be so [illegible] so cheaply obtained, but this demand has [illegible] and probably destroyed by the issue of [illegible] certificates, and silver seems doomed to go [illegible] to the treasury and remain there [illegible] lock up a couple of dozens of millions [illegible] year in this obstinate and crazy pursuit [illegible], is a question to which the [illegible] for a long time demand an answer.

Beecher-Tilton Scandal Resurrected.

[illegible] Jan 15.—A New York special says: Mrs. Tilton recently found it necessary, owing [illegible] financial circumstances, to hire [illegible] to the wife of a naval surgeon who re[illegible] Henry street, in Brooklyn, who was very [illegible] then and it became necessary to [illegible]. The family physician agreed to get [illegible] after a veiled lady came and said she [illegible] recommended by the doctor. When [illegible] sick room she announced she was the [illegible] Tilton. She was [illegible] by the bedside [illegible] was extremely devoted. The follow[illegible] began to exchange confidences [illegible] was not in the least reserved on the sub[illegible] the allowance of $1000 a year made [illegible] husband was not sufficient to maintain [illegible] in the style which she should live. Then [illegible] degrees. Her eldest daughter, the young [illegible] to act during the trial, had been [illegible] the wishes of her parents and that [illegible] had been an inmate of an asylum. The [illegible] she was caring for her daughter and [illegible] household [illegible] the front of the union [illegible] scandal was discussed. It has always, [illegible] Tilton, been a matter of profound sur[illegible] that my so called confession at [illegible] be so strange a reception at the hands [illegible].

"[illegible] there was no truth in it," said the pa[illegible] could not help yourself at the time [illegible] of it was true," replied Mrs. Tilton [illegible] toward Mr. Beecher will never be un[illegible]. He was my spiritual guide and counselor, [illegible] belief had been formed under his [illegible]. There seemed nothing wrong in what I [illegible] did it."

[illegible] expiration of four days Mrs. Tilton's [illegible] fashionably dressed, came and persuaded [illegible] go away.

The Tilton Family

[illegible] Jan 15.—Relative to the published [illegible] that Mrs. Theodore Tilton had been [illegible] to obtain a livelihood to become a [illegible] who knows are intimately yesterday [illegible] correspondent. The statement is [illegible] particle of truth. Indeed no doctor [illegible] her for a nurse. She does not [illegible] 70 or 80 pounds and is of such ex[illegible] temperament that she is more apt [illegible] herself than to act as one for an[illegible]. Tilton is boarding in this city with her [illegible] married daughter Florence. Mr. [illegible] not consulted, stated since to [illegible] of his family, though his [illegible] from time to time, Mrs. Tilton [illegible] seen him since the trial.

[illegible] and the Red-Headed Hogs.

[illegible] Jan 15.—Mrs. Langtry left for St. Louis [illegible] there she goes to Memphis and New [illegible] her present intention [illegible] overland trip. Her [illegible] was not so successful; the receipts [illegible] nearly $20,000 of which she will [illegible]. Her second week paid practically [illegible]. This was doubtless due to her [illegible] here towards young Gebhardt. The [illegible] accompany her to the train. It is [illegible] his return and will return to [illegible]. Mrs. visited the stock yards before [illegible] experience there she said: [illegible] hogs there with red hair, whose ap[illegible] very much of Mr. (naming a [illegible] paper, whose articles about [illegible] very much,) and do you know I was [illegible] pulled up and killed before I [illegible] interview, she said she liked the treat[illegible] from dramatic critics here, and [illegible] number of good ideas from them on [illegible] she added, "I do not like to see one [illegible], and that is the low manner in [illegible] America comment on matters [illegible] property. I am sure I am frank [illegible] I came to America to make [illegible] here to go into society. I [illegible] husband, a sister, with my maid [illegible] friends of my own choice, and I [illegible] of this terrible outcry. I [illegible] all kinds of letters and tele[illegible] knows, I never heard of be[illegible]. I think your papers often so [illegible]. On one page I find a scholarly [illegible] criticism on another page, [illegible] severe, but always gentle [illegible] another page of this same paper, [illegible] of those horrible things which [illegible] they call an interview."

[illegible] United States and a Portion of Ohio.

[illegible] O., Jan. 14.—Saturday last O'Connor, [illegible] has been wandering all over the [illegible] delivering anti-Catholic lectures, ar[illegible] city and announced his intention of [illegible] Black's hall last night. At an early [illegible] gathered to hear the lecture and [illegible] arrived there were 1500 people [illegible] seemed orderly, but the instant [illegible] on the stage he was greeted with [illegible] rotten eggs, etc. Confusion [illegible] O'Connor hastily jumped into a [illegible] the door. Women screamed and it [illegible] thought a general riot would ensue [illegible] in the house would have suf[illegible] as the opposition was greatly in the [illegible] O'Connor's assailants were about to leave [illegible] somebody suggested a coat of tar and [illegible] were about to carry out their threat [illegible] of police appeared on the scene [illegible] O'Connor. There is great excitement [illegible]. No arrests were made. Three [illegible] morning and one evening—were [illegible] the names or particulars of the [illegible] the Catholic element is in the ascendant.

[illegible] Jan 15.—Prof. Swing in a sermon yes[illegible] such scenes as the dishonest officer [illegible] stealing half a million with one hand [illegible] the eloquence of honesty with [illegible] common as to cause only a wonder [illegible] in the mind and heart of the un[illegible] Archbishop Purcell, of Cincinnati, there [illegible] have been any adequate sense of the [illegible]. He was kind hearted to an [illegible] and fond of the success of his creed [illegible] if Catholics were trusting to this arch[illegible] they were never to see again, he was [illegible] banks. He had not trained him[illegible] but led himself be [illegible] of business recklessness [illegible] him in dishonesty of purpose [illegible] without a peer in the large crowd of [illegible] fidelity to his day-book. A ledger [illegible] of more value to Archbishop [illegible] the incense around his altar and [illegible] his chanting priests. W. G. Morris, collector of customs for Alaska, should also be called upon to state what he knows concerning this alleged Indian custom of furnishing blankets to boys while men under pain of shot and shell. It is a form of protection to the home industries of Alaska.

Gov. Stephens on Important Bills.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Herald editorial: In an interview with Gov. Stephens, of Georgia, the veteran observer of great facts gives his opinion of the interoceanic ship canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific. Upon a review of the several projects now before the world, he expressed unqualified preference for the Nicaragua canal. He holds that the United States should control it, and urges consequently the passage of the bill on the subject now before the house of representatives. In reference to the treaty, he says it would not affect the sugar-growing interests of the United States, although the development of millions in that country would stimulate that industry. It is also claimed that the free admission of Mexican tobacco would not affect American production, as that grown in Mexico corresponds to the Cuban standard, such as is used for cigars, while the American leaf is more, if not exclusively adopted to fillers and wrappers.

Advantages of the Mexican Treaty.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The Herald's Washington says: There are thirty-two articles of import from Mexico which are proposed to be admitted free of duty into the United States. Of these, three already on the free list and six are not articles produced in our country. Only two in the list—sugar and tobacco—are products of the United States. In return for these the Mexican government proposes to admit free of duty all hardware, tools and machinery adapted to mining and agriculture. It is said that Mexico produces only about one-fourth the amount of sugar necessary for home consumption.

Asks a Reduction and gets a Raise.

JERSEY CITY, Jan. 15.—Shaw, cashier of the suspended City bank, arraigned to-day, said he was unable to furnish the $80,000 bail demanded, and asked to have the amount reduced. The justice replied that, in view of certain evidence now in the hands of the bailiff, instead of being reduced it would probably be increased. The prisoner was committed to jail. It is intimated that several additional arrests are about to be made, in the matter of information, implicating parties not heretofore mentioned in the case.

Meeting of Government Railroad Directors.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—The Commercial learns from G. G. Haven, one of the government directors of the Union Pacific, that at the directors' session in Boston Friday they accepted the report of Bromley and Hoyt, the former being present instead of being in California, as reported. The report was based on the recent tour of the road, and stated the condition of the road-bed and rolling stock. Regarding the finances, they say the company was not prepared to make a statement, and asked till March 1st.

Fraudulent Will.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 15.—In May last John Broad died, leaving property valued at $40,000. No will appeared and an administrator was appointed to settle the estate. Soon after, Fred Cummings, a nephew of Broad, was offered a will anonymously for $5000. The money was paid, the will produced and admitted to probate. The administrator contested, and the case is just decided in his favor. J. H. Scarratt and B. F. Thighpen, witnesses of the will, were arrested on a charge of forgery.

Panic Avoided.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 15.—Quite a panic at the Perry cotton mill was caused by the filling of the mill with steam from the boiler, which had burst. The female operatives rushed pell mell for the fire escapes and stairways, and some made for the windows, but were prevented taking the fatal leap by outsiders, who assured them there was no danger. None of the operatives were injured. The fireman and engineer were severely injured by the explosion.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 15.—The U. S. Express company carried a package from the First National bank, this city, to Muncie, Indiana, supposed to contain $5000. When opened it was found to contain only slips of muslin. The superintendent of the company writes to the bank that the package was delivered in the condition received. The bank claims the package was all right when delivered and will begin suit.

New York's Blue Laws.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Although the "Blue Laws" have lost their novelty, the police continue to make arrests for violation of them. Yesterday several prisoners were held for trial by police justices. In most cases the prisoners had been keeping open dry goods stores and butcher shops and bakeries.

Two Children Burned to Death.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Jan. 15.—The dwelling of Henry Pierce, just across the line in Dakota, was burned yesterday. His wife accidentally upset a lamp while he was at the barn. He returned in time to drag his wife out, almost suffocated and in a dead faint. He then rushed in after his two children, aged 5 and 2 years, but was driven out, badly scorched, by the flames, and the little ones were burned to death.

Vessel at Sea Burning for Seven Days.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The steamer Neckar arrived yesterday at noon from Bremen. She took off the crew of brig Mary and Lizzie, which had been burning for seven days. The crew numbered eight persons. The fire was kept down by closing up the holds with sails and blankets. The men were greatly exhausted, being at work day and night since the fire broke out.

Can't Stand the Mother-in-Law Part.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Heiselbon, a Brooklyn Jewess, sued A. V. Dicks for breach of promise, asking $15,000 damages. As he is not a Hebrew he expresses a willingness to marry her on the condition that they live separately from her family and ignore religious views.

Into a Snow Bank.

HALIFAX, Jan. 15.—The Windsor & Annapolis express for Halifax ran off the track near Mount Uniacke station, two passenger, one postal and one baggage car, were thrown into a snow bank. Two passengers were seriously injured; others escaped with slight injuries.

Hubbell's Victims.

CAMDEN, Me., Jan. 15.—Citizens in Lowell attended a meeting and expressed indignation at the appointment of M. S. Rich as postmaster over the present incumbent, Alden Miller, Jr., a wounded soldier who did not pay assessments on his salary.

Fourteenth German Saengerfest.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The German singing societies of Brooklyn propose building a $30,000 hall for the 14th grand saengerfest of German societies in the United States on June next. The festivals will last five days. Twenty thousand singers are expected.

To Injure His Prospects of Re-election.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Senator McPherson writes to the Sun, emphatically denying each and all of Bunting's charges of improper conduct in legislation regarding the transportation of cattle. He intimates that it is a political card to prevent his re-election to the Senate.

Clothed in Rags and Pinched with Hunger.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—A News special from Kingston, Georgia, says a report is just received that a white woman with her three small children were found frozen to death in the woods between here and Atlanta, clothed in rags and pinched with hunger. Their names are unknown.

A Swede Practicing American Methods of Getting Rich.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Major Frederick Roth, of the Swiss confederation, was arrested on board the steamer Rhineland, for alleged appropriation of government funds to his own use. He was held for trial.

They Forgot to Take All.

JERSEY CITY, Jan. 15.—It is now believed $100,000 will not cover the amount of funds missing from the wrecked City bank. All that is left from the wreck in the shape of assets is the cheap office furniture and $1900 accidentally left in the cash drawer.

Smoking Car Jumps the Track.

KANSAS CITY, Jan 14.—Near Chanton river a smoking car of a passenger train jumped the track and crashed into the caboose of a freight train on a side track, killing the conductor. The passengers were considerably shaken up.

Blizzards.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Reports from the northwestern blizzard in Dakota, Minnesota, northern Wisconsin and Iowa, says a number of people have been frozen to death and lost in the snow storm. Railroad travel is much delayed.

And the Beer Canal from New York to Shanghai.

CHICAGO, Jan 15.—The commissioner of public works says this city used during the year 24,150,000,000 gallons of water, equal to a canal twenty feet wide, ten feet deep, from New York to San Francisco.

Building Crushed by Snow.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 15.—A frame structure, 600 feet long and 50 feet wide, belonging to McKee & Fuller, car manufacturers, at Allentown, fell under the weight of snow on the roof. Several cars and engines in the building were ruined. Loss, $120,000.

Big Failures.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—James Smyth & Co., manufacturers of cotton and ginghams, who suspended payment three weeks ago, have liabilities to the amount of $500,000; assets, $760,000.

Marquis and Princess.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. Jan. 14.—The Princess Louise and marquis of Lorne and party, arrived from St. Louis this evening at 6:20, and left at 7:30 for Richmond, going thence to Savannah and Charleston.

Sloop of War to Meet the Princess.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 15.—Her majesty's sloop-of-war Dido is in the offing and will enter the harbor to-day. She comes to meet the Princess Louise and suite.

Ice Blockade Broken.

PETERSBURG, Va., Jan. 15.—The ice blockade in the James river broke to-day. The rushing ice struck and sunk the steam tug Edith. Loss, $5000.

The Stranded Steamer.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 15.—The stranded steamer Egypt lies in a bad position in the event of a storm. If the present weather continues she can be floated when the cargo is removed.

SPORTING NOTES.

Kentucky Races.

LEXINGTON, Jan. 15.—Racing interest has been much advanced in this state recently. Indications now are that the Kentucky running and trotting meetings for 1883 will attract more attention. The Louisville Jockey Club has imparted an impetus to the movement for longer race meetings, more races and bigger purses. The Lexington association, following the lead, announces a spring meeting of eight days, entries to the various events to be closed on the 15th. It is believed all of them will fill entries to the events for the spring meeting. The Louisville Jockey Club has been closed for some days, but the entries have not been made known. It has been given out, however, that it will be good.

WASHINGTON.

Weil and Labra Fraudulent Claims Against Mexico to be Investigated.

Asking an Increase of Appropriation for the Holland Exhibition.

GODDESS OF LIBERTY'S HEADDRESS.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—During the past week the senate has devoted the best part of two days to the Weil and Labra claims, which have occupied a large share of attention since 1868. The particulars of the question are whether a treaty for a new commission to investigate these claims shall be ratified, such a treaty having been recently signed by Secretary Frelinghuysen, but no settlement of the question has yet been reached. Weil and Labra were awarded claims against the Mexican government, which Sir Edward Thornton, then acting as umpire between the two countries in this matter of claims, decided Mexico should pay. The Mexican government paid the other claims, but objected to these two which represented nearly one-third the aggregate value of the claims, the award in the Labra claim being about half a million, on the ground that they were fraudulent. The Weil claim was based on the assumption of Benjamin Weil that in 1864 a large quantity of cotton belonging to him was seized and taken from him by Mexican troops, near Laredo. The Labra company alleges that local authorities in Durango, where their silver mines were located, had compelled the company to abandon them and leave the country. Representatives of both of these parties have been making a determined fight to prevent a reopening of the case, claiming that once having decided in their favor, they are entitled to the money.

A Senator Gives a Dinner for an Object.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—At a dinner given in this city last Thursday evening by Representative Cox, of New York, to ex-Gov. Dorsheimer of that state, a gentleman who has been prominently mentioned as a compromise candidate for the speakership of the next house, a number of democratic members of the present house, who are members elect of the next congress, were present, and this, taken in connection with the fact that Mr. Cox is very attentive to Dorsheimer, a day or two previously introducing him in the house to members, gave rise to the report telegraphed from here that Cox was grooming Dorsheimer for the race for speaker. Friends of Mr. Cox are very much annoyed at this report, since the latter himself, is a candidate for speaker, and is ready to make the race in a certain contingency. They state, on the authority of Mr. Cox himself, that his dinner to Mr. Dorsheimer had no political significance whatever; that it was merely complimentary to Mr. Dorsheimer. They say also that Mr. Cox will be a candidate for speaker if he can have the united New York delegation for him, otherwise not. It is expected before the end of the present session there will be a conference of New York men here, at which the course to be followed by the New York delegation on the speakership fight will be mapped out.

Representation in the Republican Convention.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—It is expected about thirty members of the national republican convention will be present at the meeting Wednesday to settle the question of representation in the convention in accordance with the resolution of the national convention of 1880. The manner of proxies was mentioned to a prominent member of the committee. He said he believed it was a rule that the holder of a proxy must hail from the state from which it was given. This will be enforced as far as practicable. In the case of territories it will not be enforced. It is understood three plans of apportionment of representation will be submitted to the committee.

Chandler's—For four delegates at large for every state, two delegates from each district and three delegates for every republican senator and representative, making a total of 1360.

Forbes'—For two delegates at large for each state, one delegate for each district and one for every republican senator and representative; total, 871.

Martin's—For four delegates at large for each state, one delegate for each district and one for every 12,000 republican votes or major fraction thereof; total, 867.

The Insatiable Butler.

WASHINGTON, Jan 15.—The Massachusetts senatorial contest is assuming a new phase. Representative Crapo authorized the statement that the report that he had written a letter withdrawing from the contest was not true, for the reason that he was not a candidate, and, consequently, cannot withdraw. It is pretty well understood that friends of Hoar do not wish it stated officially that Crapo is not a candidate, for if it appears that Hoar cannot be elected, his friends much prefer Crapo to Gov. Long. Long has affiliations with Butler, and is the man elected by Butler to defeat Hoar. One of Butler's men yesterday said Butler's victory would lose all of its pleasure to him (Butler) if Hoar should be re-elected. Some of the managers have been here this week. They say Hoar's prospects are growing brighter.

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution.

A prominent western lawyer is engaged in preparing a draft on an amendment to the constitution, which will be offered for congressional action this session, that will make it possible for citizens of any state to bring suit against any other state. This amendment is being prepared at the instance of holders of state bonds issued by states, such as Tennessee, which have endeavored to repudiate their obligations, and the gentleman who has it in charge says the Tennessee delegation in congress are in favor of such action. The proposed amendment contemplates the restoration of the condition of affairs prior to the adoption of the 11th amendment to the constitution in 1798, when citizens could bring suit against any state but their own.

Holland Exhibition.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Managers of the Holland international exhibition hope congress may be induced to appropriate $100,000 to provide a suitable display of American industry and products. This is only half the sum voted to the Vienna exhibition, while the trade of the United States with the Netherlands in 1881 was more than eight times larger than with Austria. It has increased three-fold the past six years. As showing the importance the government of the Netherlands attaches to the trade with the United States, Commissioner Wheeler cites the fact that it appropriated $82,000 to enable its subjects to make the exhibit which they sent to Philadelphia in 1876.

Jeannette Board of Inquiry.

Chief Engineer Melville was recalled to identify documents to be introduced as evidence. These included the journal and a letter of the late Jerome Collins, and two letters of DeLong, relating to the DeLong-Collins difficulty. Melville testified he was ignorant of the fact that the bodies which were interred near Mat-e were disinterred by Jackson and Carson until he read of it in the published accounts of the testimony of Noros. The board will prepare a report upon the investigation up to the present time, but the work will not be completed until the Jeannette men in Siberia are examined. They will return some time in March.

Retrenchment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—As a part of the retrenchment policy of Secretary Chandler, necessitated by law of the last session of congress, the tug Pinta, which has been recently repaired at Norfolk, is to be sent to Alaska. She will replace the Adams which has been there for several months. There seems to be no reason for employing a man-of-war on the Alaskan coast. The Pinta will go around the Horn and will arrive at Alaska in time for duty next summer. Her tonnage is only 306 tons. Commanding Officer H. C. White is a New Yorker.

Secretary Folger's Figures.

Secretary Folger, in a letter to the chairman of the house committee on foreign affairs in answer to a request for his views as the effect, commercially, of the abrogation of the Hawaiian treaty, encloses a set of tables showing in detail the trade between the United States and the Hawaiian islands. These show that the value of exports to the islands for the fiscal year amounted to $8,360,775, and the value of imports from the islands for the same time, $7,646,294. Had the sugar imported been subject to duty that duty would have been $3,405,446.

Give her a Spring Bonnet.

There is some talk of removing the headdress now adorning the goddess of liberty on the capitol dome and placing in its stead a cap of liberty. Jefferson Davis was on the committee that considered the work. He opposed, however, the liberty cap because it represented freedom to all mankind, and at that time slavery existed. He suggested the Indian headdress. His suggestion was favorably considered.

"Those who should Know" are Numerous.

Those who should know say there is no truth in the report that the Fitz John Porter bill has been the subject of discussions in the cabinet and that the president has decided to veto it. Indeed, one cabinet officer is authority for the statement that the subject has never once been mentioned.

Postal Changes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Postoffices established—Hebo, Tillamook county, Or., Geo. W. Bodyfell, postmaster.

Discontinued—Clover, Baker county, Or.; Freedom, Coos county, Or.

Postmasters appointed—Elkton, Douglas county, Or., E. M. Stark; Enchanted Prairie, Coos, Or., Rollin S. Belknap; Rockville, Wasco, Or., Albert N. Varney.

Meeting of Treaty Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Gen. Canedo, one of the commissioners appointed by the Mexican government to negotiate a commercial treaty with the United States, has arrived. Canedo and Romero this afternoon paid respects to Gen. Grant and Trescott, the American commissioners. A formal meeting of the commission will be held to-day.

Ruth Ginning in the Field.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 15.—The case of the savings bank of this place against Samuel Ruth and J. S. Thompson for conspiracy and embezzlement, has been compromised. Thompson pays the bank $10,850 and attorneys' fees. Ruth was rearrested on the charge of perjury, embezzlement and false pretenses, on the oath of W. A. Mackey, stockholder.

Decision in Favor of the Pacific Mail Company.

The court of claims returned a decision in favor of the Pacific Mail steamship company for $61,353 33 in a suit against the United States under the contract for carrying the mail on the China line a number of years ago.

Bitter Root Valley Lands.

The secretary of the interior decided the lands in the Bitter Root valley, Mont., are not subject to grant to the Northern Pacific road as the land is occupied by settlers.

Red Cloud wants a Settlement.

Red Cloud had an interview with Secretary Teller to-day. He urged the payment for the horses taken by Gen. Crook. Money was appropriated to pay for these horses and a letter has been sent to the third auditor of the treasury inquiring if any balance of the fund remains.

ASIA.

Construction of Ironclads on a Large Scale at Foo Chow Arsenal—Chinese Obstruction to Foreign Merchants.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Arrived, str Oceanic, from Hongkong via Yokohama.

HONGKONG, Dec. 23.—The death of the Nanking viceroy, Tso, is daily expected.

Commissioners from Burmah strongly insist on their country being permitted to resume tributary relations to China.

Severe earthquake shocks were felt at Hongkong and Amoy on the 15th December.

The wife of Li, viceroy of Chili, is dangerously ill.

The Foo Chow arsenal is preparing for the construction of ironclads on a large scale. Ten ships of various dimensions are ordered by the government.

Ghoy, a rising Chinese lawyer of London, now confidentially employed by the government, is about to be dispatched to Europe on important diplomatic service.

Mrs. Young, wife of the American minister, is greatly improved in health. No danger now apprehended.

Reports from Peking indicate that the relations between China and the treaty powers are becoming unsatisfactory on the question of the right of foreign merchants to manufacture at the open ports. The United States consul-general at Shanghai and the envoy at Peking have protested against the action of the Nanking viceroy, in obstructing the cotton-yarn company, of Wetmore, the manufacture of silk by Russell & Co., and the electric light agencies, all American interests. The recent refusal of the United States' envoy to sanction the arrest of Wetmore's clerk, ordered by the viceroy, has been followed by a proposal of the viceroy to withdraw the order of arrest provided Wetmore abandons his enterprise. The result is awaited with considerable interest by the diplomatic body.

Von Brandt, German envoy, has giving the Peking government to understand that any attempt to carry out the obstructive policy with his countrymen will be opposed by force. Other foreign representatives are less concerned about the manufactures in China. The English would not object to see them suppressed, as England already supplies a large part of the cotton goods used. A proposal is understood to have been made by Capt. St. John, of the British navy, that England annex a certain island on the coast of Corea and establish a colony and naval station.

Prince Kung shows no sign of recovery.

YOKOHAMA, Dec. 31.—Hanabusa, for many years Japanese envoy to Corea, has been promoted to minister to Russia.

There have been numerous destructive fires in Tokio and Yokohama. In the latter place the governor's official quarters were burned.

Japanese exports for October $3,000,000; imports, $2,360,000.

The Corean special envoys returned home after months of festivity in the capital of Japan.

One hundred and twenty-four policemen are constantly employed to guard the government officers in and out of doors.

Hachesuka, ex-daimios of Owa, one of the few great noblemen who take part in the government service, was appointed envoy to France.

CONFLAGRATIONS.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 15.—The origin of the fire is undoubtedly incendiary. The call for volunteers at the exhumation of the bodies at the Newhall house ruins to-day turned out to be a fizzle, only two citizens responding. The regular paid force are hard at work despite the cutting northwesterly wind and extremely cold weather. Two charred bodies, beyond recognition, were taken out during the day, making 13 charred bodies in addition to the 28 identified dead, or 41 known to be dead in all. Mrs. Bridget Brigman, the oldest employe of the hotel, is reported as missing to-day, making 42 bodies yet supposed to be in the ruins. She is known to have started out on the morning of the fire, arousing servants, and is not heard of since. She was from this city.

Five bodies were buried to-day, among them T. B. Elliott, a prominent lawyer, who came to the hotel on the 3 o'clock train the morning of the fire. Half an hour later he jumped from the fourth story window. He broke both legs, injured his spine and died Friday. He was a prominent Mason and state representative of the United States Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows. The funeral ceremonies were imposing.

The mayor received Jay Gould's check for $500 for the relief of sufferers, and the Western Union Telegraph Co.'s for $100.

To be as nearly correct as possible, the afternoon papers made the following statement: Taken to the morgue, 16; recovered from the ruins, 21; since died, 3; dead not taken to morgue, 5; total, 50. This does not include the fragments of bodies found. About 40 people are reported missing, yet unaccounted for, which swells the list to 90. It is almost a sure thing that over 100 lost their lives by the calamity. No official investigation can be made into the origin and cause leading to the disaster until the examination of the work at the ruins, the bodies all to remain at the temporary morgue until that time, unless positive identifications are made. In such cases the identified bodies may be given to friends.

Chicago, Ills.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—The works of the Chicago Smelting and Refining company, corner of Fortieth and Clark streets, were totally destroyed by fire at 4 o'clock this morning. Loss $110,000; insurance $9,000. There was some delay in calling out the fire department and in turning on the water, and before the streams were turned on the main building, which is 220 by 25 feet, and the separating building, 20 by 250 feet, and the smaller building, 20 by 150 feet, were too far involved to be saved. The buildings were 2½ stories high. Cause of fire unknown.

St. Louis, Mo.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 15.—About 1 o'clock this morning the Duggan & Harker Hardware company's works were destroyed by fire. Loss $40,000; insured for $25,000. Severin Zoebalt, silver platter manufacturer, who occupied the second floor of the building, lost $25,000; insured.

Memphis, Tenn.

MEMPHIS, Jan. 14.—Fire to-night destroyed the First Presbyterian church. Services had been held there and the congregation were dismissed only a quarter of an hour. Loss, $35,000; insurance light.

Tarrytown, N. Y.

TARRYTOWN, Jan. 15.—The fine residence of Samuel C. Lomis, having a frontage of 100 feet, together with all the furniture and pictures, was burned. Loss over $100,000.

Uxbridge, Mass.

UXBRIDGE, Jan. 15.—The round house of the Midland railway and four locomotives were burned. Loss $50,000.

Bangor, Me.

BANGOR, Jan. 15.—The paper mill of Joseph B. Crossley & Co., 225 by 70 feet, was burned with contents.

POLITICAL.

Nebraska Senatorial Contest.

OMAHA, Jan. 15.—Lincoln is swarming with people from all parts of the state, the attraction being the senatorial contest. The first ballot takes place to-morrow. Nothing definite can be said regarding any of the particular candidates' chances. On the first ballot, Millard will probably get 25 republican votes, Saunders 17, Manderson and Corvin 10 each, the rest scattering.

The democrats will hold a caucus to-night to decide upon some man to unite on. Their choice will be one of three men, J. Sterling Morton, J. W. Savage and Mayor Boyd, of Omaha. There is quite a strong demonstration among the democrats in favor of Boyd.

The anti-monopolists will also hold a caucus. It is doubtful whether the democrats and anti-monopolists will combine, as there is a division in the ranks of both.

Hon. J. H. Millard, the leading republican candidate, has gained considerable strength to-day.

Injured Innocence.

DENVER, Jan. 15.—The committee appointed by the legislature to investigate the attempted bribery of a member for the lieutenant governor's interest in the senatorial race, has come to the conclusion the affair was one of blackmail by Stevens, editor of the Rico Clipper, who offered a sum of money to Letcher if he would pledge his vote for Tabor as senator, who, confronted by Letcher in the presence of Tabor and a member of the legislature, confessed having done so without either request or authority. The ensuing scene was intensely dramatic. Letcher stigmatized Stevens as a liar and blackmailer and coward, and advised him never to cross his path again. The latter remained undisturbed, and when thrown through the door into the corridor of the hotel, he asked his escort for a loan of $10. Failing in this, he begged a cigar, and obtaining one, smilingly took his departure.

Balloting for a Senator.

DENVER, Jan. 15.—In the republican caucus to-night to nominate a United States senator, six formal ballots were had but no choice made. Adjourned until to-morrow night. Pitkin leads by one or two on every ballot. The first formal ballot was as follows: Pitkin 21, Tabor 15, Hamill 10, Bowen 4, scattering 2. The sixth and last ballot was as follows: Pitkin 20, Tabor 19, Hamill 9, Bowen 5. The final result cannot be predicted.

That Eagle will be Mistaken for a Buzzard.

NASHVILLE, Jan. 15.—General William B. Bate was inaugurated governor at noon to-day with imposing ceremonies and the firing of cannon. After the inauguration a live eagle was set at liberty from Capitol hill, bearing a medal on which was inscribed: "For president, Cleveland, of New York; and for vice president, Bate, of Tennessee."

Balloting for a United States senator begins to-morrow.

RAILWAY RUMBLINGS.

Must be of Age.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—The Times says the Northwestern railroad proposes to discharge all employees in its running departments under twenty-one years of age in order to secure efficiency and prevent accidents from carelessness.

Another Monopoly.

MONTREAL, Jan. 15.—It is reported a project is on foot to unite the Grand Trunk, North Shore and Rome and Watertown railways with the Richelieu and St. Lawrence Navigation companies in a general traffic combination for monopolizing all the land and water trade of the St. Lawrence route.

Democratic Thrust at Pendleton.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Have the republicans ever thought of Senator George H. Pendleton, of Ohio, as a presidential candidate for them in 1884?

"The term hydra" may be used to represent any manifold evil. If you would battle successfully with this many-headed monster of disease you will find it expedient to keep Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound always on hand.—Dr. Banning.

CONGRESS.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A number of bills and petitions were presented and Hon. Halladay's bill was resumed, the question being on Plumb's motion to substitute for it a bill to exchange the powers and duties of the department of agriculture.

Davis favored the agricultural bill.

Merrill opposed the Halladay bill.

The morning hour expired and the tariff bill came up.

Senate resumed consideration of the tariff schedule.

On motion of Miller, of Kentucky, the duty on hemlock and other tan bark was fixed at 20 per cent. ad valorem.

On motion of Garland, cotton seed oil was included among oils at 25 per cent. duty.

The duty on asbestos, manufactured, was raised from 20 to 25 per cent. The rate on whiting and paris white, ground in oil or putty, was made a cent per pound.

After some debate Ingalls rose to move to strike out the item in view of putting bichromate potash on the free list, but Windom having been previously recognized, moved to go into executive session, Ingall's motion was not in order.

Frye introduced a joint resolution directing the president of the United States to give notice in July next of our intention to terminate articles 18 to 25 and article 30 of the treaty of Washington relating to the fisheries.

Windom's motion was agreed to, and the senate at 2:50 P. M. went into executive session. At 1:35 the doors were reopened and the senate adjourned.

House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.

Bragg endeavored to have the Fitz John Porter bill considered, but objections were raised by Dunn and Taylor, of Ohio.

Under the call of states a number of bills were introduced and referred.

Curtin, of Pennsylvania, presented a petition from the subscribers to the Philadelphia Centennial stock asking for an appropriation to pay the deficit.

On motion of Sherwin a resolution was adopted, 121 to 20, making the education bill for the support of common schools a special order for the 20th inst.

Rice, of Missouri, from the committee on pensions, moved to suspend the rules and adopt the resolution making the bill granting pensions to survivors of the Mexican and certain Indian wars, a special order for the first Tuesday in February; adopted.

Wise, of Virginia, from the committee on war claims, moved to suspend the rules and pass the bill for the relief of Wm. B. Isaacs & Co., allowing the petition of claimants, as successors of certain banks in Virginia, for gold seized during the war to be referred to the court of claims for adjudication; negatived.

The speaker presented a letter from the secretary of the navy with the report of the naval advisory board as to the wisdom and expediency of completing the ironclads Monadnock, Puritan, Amphitrite and Terror; referred. Adjourned.

TWO IMPORTANT BILLS ACTED UPON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The house to-day refused to allow the Kansas Pacific railway taxation bill and the bill to consolidate the Southern Pacific and other railroads to be made a special order. Members of the committee reporting on these bills sought in their speeches to conceal the idea that in bringing in these bills they were doing a great public service and invoking the hostility of railroad corporations. They argued that the only way in which the rate of transportation via the Southern Pacific and connecting railway lines could be cheapened, would be by consolidating them in one continuous line and keeping them within the scope of congressional authority to regulate the inter-state commerce, and, as regards the Kansas Pacific bill, that some effort should be made to bring this road under the operations of the Thurman act and open its lines to taxation. The house would not accept their views, however, and voted down the proposition to suspend the rules and make the bills special order for January 24th, by a very narrow margin, the vote standing 101 ayes to 84 nays. Six more affirmatives or even a change of two votes, would have given the required two-thirds to have adopted the resolution.

WORK FOR THE RAILROAD COMMISSIONER.

A joint resolution was offered by Dunn, of Arkansas, and referred to the committee on commerce, providing for an investigation of the subject of railroad transportation in all its relations to the agricultural, commercial and industrial interests of the United States. It directs the commissioner of railroads to consider and investigate the subject and inquire generally into the conditions affecting commerce with foreign nations and among the states; the character and extent of the discriminations made by railroad corporations and rates charged by them, if rather exorbitant or unequal, and the sufficiency for traffic throughout the country; to ascertain, as near as may be, the cost of construction and equipment, and rate, and amount of dividends declared and paid. The resolution also directs that the commissioner shall have the power to send for persons and papers, administer oaths, examine witnesses; in the prosecution of his inquiries to visit such portions of the country as he may deem advisable.

WANTS AN INTERVENING DAY.

Representative Gibson of Louisiana introduced in the house to-day a bill providing that the 48th congress shall assemble on the 5th of March, the day after the expiration of the present congress. Mr. Gibson makes no explanation as to why he introduced the bill, but it is believed that he thinks the present congress will fail to revise the tariff, and the commission, with many others, wants it disposed of by the next congress as soon as possible. The bill was referred to the ways and means committee and will probably never be heard of again, unless it should become evident that congress will be unable to pass a tariff bill at this session. Under the 4th section of the constitution congress has the power to appoint a day on which to meet other than the first Monday in December, and this has been done several times.

METAL SCHEDULE.

The metal schedule, as reported by the senate financial committee in their tariff bill, provoked so much criticism from various interests that to-day, by order of the committee, a telegram was sent to Oliver, a member of the tariff commission, who prepared this schedule, to come to Washington at once and explain it.

TO PUT AN END TO DESERTION IN THE ARMY.

The bill to increase the efficiency of the army, introduced by Logan and approved by the military committee of the senate, meets with general favor among army officers, who contend that its passage would put, in a great degree, an end to desertion. The bill embodies all the principal recommendations contained in the last annual report of the secretary of war.

NOT TO BE SNUBBED.

California representatives are very much annoyed at the action of the ways and means committee in refusing them a hearing on questions, in relation to the tariff, of interest to their section of the country. They promise to make a fight for their own interests when the bill comes up in the house.

BILL FOR PENSIONS.

Rosecrans introduced in the house to-day a bill to pension Perina Hunt, widow of Capt. John Hunt, at $30 per month; also a bill to permit Della G. Webber, L. H. Nason and others, sufferers from the Modoc war, to file claims for pensions.

ADMIT THEY ERRED.

Representative Rosecrans said to-day that the ways and means committee have admitted being in error in putting boracic acid on the free list, and will change their recommendation on the subject.

CALIFORNIA.

A Swindling Preacher.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Judgment was rendered to-day against Rev. H. Cox, popularly known as "Hallelujah" Cox, for $2,010 [illegible], and in favor of Eliza Ely, an old lady recently from the east. It was shown on trial that shortly after her arrival in this state she met the reverend gentleman, and was induced by him to invest money in a mine, of which he was president, on the representation that the security was perfect. A number of prominent mining men testified that the stock was worthless; that no bona fide sales had been made. Cox denied having represented the stock as valuable, but a letter was introduced showing that he had vouched for the perfect security of the investment.

Murder of a Chinese Courtesan.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—The Chinese courtesan, Chow Oum, who was shot last night in Sullivan's alley at 9 o'clock, lingered until 3:30 to-night, when she expired. This morning four Chinamen, who were arrested on suspicion of complicity in the murder, were brought into the presence of the wounded woman. She immediately pointed out one Ah Poy and said he was the person who shot her. Ah Poy is now in custody on the charge of murder.

Prominent Americans to Witness the Coronation of King Kalakaua.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—The steamer Australia sails to-morrow, having on board a large number of distinguished persons who will be present at the coronation of King Kalakaua. It had been expected that a large delegation of prominent ladies and gentlemen of this city would witness the ceremonies, but the rumors which recently prevailed to the effect that trouble was apprehended, deterred many from carrying out their purpose.

Indian Concentration in Sonora.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—A Tombstone dispatch says: Yesterday afternoon a teamster, 10 miles east of here, was attacked by Apaches. He succeeded in fighting them off and reached the town in safety. Straggling bands of Indians, from the San Carlos reservation, en route to join Ju in Sonora, are passing here every few days. A dispatch from Hermosillo states the governor of Sonora has ordered out a large contingent of the National Guards to intercept the Indians. It is possible the Indians are going from the San Carlos reservation to join Ju in Sierra Madres.

Troublesome Tramps.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14.—News was received in this city to-day that a party of sixteen tramps took possession of a rear car of the west bound freight train near Yuma yesterday, and refused to leave it when ordered by the conductor. Being armed, they defied the train hands and said they must be taken to Los Angeles. The conductor having no other course ran the train on a siding and detaching the car came on, leaving the tramps on a switch.

Freight Cars Demolished.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—The emigrant train from the east at 4 A. M. met with an accident on reaching the city this morning, by which three freight cars and contents were badly damaged, two of the cars being loaded with wagons and the third with molasses. The accident was caused by a part of the racks surrounding the wagons falling across the track and throwing the cars off. Amount of damage not ascertained.

RICHES IN HOP FARMING.

At the present prices, ten acres in Hops will bring more money than five hundred acres in any other farming; and, if there is a consumer or dealer who thinks the price of Hop Bitters high, remember that Hops are $1 25 per lb., and the quantity and quality of Hops in Hop Bitters and the price remains the same as formerly. Don't buy or use worthless stuff or imitations because the price is less.

"NO COMPROMISE."

It is a great mistake on the part of temperance advocates to refer as so many of them constantly do to the tax on intoxicating liquors as "an unholy tax." This is the opposite extreme of "free whisky;" and it is curious to observe that the two extremes of untaxed liquors and impracticable prohibition, though hostile each other intensely, nevertheless practically stand together in their work in a common cause. Every effort of injudicious advocates of the temperance cause to prevent the taxation of the manufacture and sale of liquors aids and strengthens the traffic they denounce. What would those who talk of the "unholy tax" do? Would they remove the tax and give us free whisky? Enforce prohibition they cannot; but the tax can be enforced, and liquor dealers generally make no objection to paying it. This revenue regulation of the liquor business has been highly beneficial in many ways. Our own experience here in Portland shows that it has closed all saloons of the worst character. Is it an "unholy tax" that shuts up dens of vice and infamy like those which have been closed in this way? Observe that they could be shut up in no other way. Again, the tax on liquors goes far towards keeping the local and national governments in running order. For many years it has been a great factor in the maintenance of public credit, at home and abroad. It has paid pensions, carried the mails, improved rivers and harbors and reduced the national debt, or helped to do all these things. It is said, however, that this is a "sordid" view of the case. Is it? No one denies that consumption of intoxicating liquors is a source of many and great evils. But since all experience proves that the consumption cannot be stopped, why not adopt regulations to make it contribute to support of government? Is not this the sensible way? We are told that the issue is "between prohibition and free whisky," and that there must be "no compromise." Then "free whisky" will carry the day. For no law or other device ever has been or ever will be able to stop the consumption of liquors. But the manufacture, sale and consumption of liquors will not be permitted to be "free." The business can not be suppressed, and therefore will be taxed.

We regret that a writer whose letter appears to-day has read this journal so hastily as to suppose its utterances on this subject to be "glee" at "the seeming discomfiture which prohibition has sustained in different sections of the country." THE OREGONIAN has simply referred to these events as further proofs that prohibition cannot be made successful, and has endeavored to use them to show how the liquor question can be dealt with in the most practical and effective way. In an ideal state of society we should probably have no liquors, and therefore should want no liquor laws. But the regulations of government must conform to facts as they exist. They cannot deal with society as an ideal thing, or with man in a beatified state. High license is the extreme measure of restriction that can be enforced in dealing with the liquor question, and even that cannot be enforced in all places. In the rural districts of almost every state a prohibitory law would, indeed find little or no opposition, but temperance prevails in those places without regard to statutes and prohibitory laws fail just where there would be most need of them if they could be made effective. True wisdom in dealing with this and all other matters instead of soaring in the clouds or beating the air, seeks to do what there is a chance to accomplish.

THE PEACE OF EUROPE.

Russia, it is said, is bent on war with Austria. Turkey is the bone of contention, but it is not probable that Russia would be permitted to persist in an aggressive policy in that direction without encountering German opposition, and English opposition too, should Russian designs prove really menacing. A London letter says Germany and Austria are strengthening the fortresses on their frontiers, double tracking their railroads in that direction so as to be able to move vast masses of men and materials on short notice, and are on an actual war footing at this time of two millions of men armed with all the modern appliances of warfare. Nor is Russia by any means idle. Her armies have been enlarged and strengthened; double-track railways have been constructed along her western and southern frontiers, and chains of the strongest fortresses have been completed, reaching all the way to the Black sea. Torpedo protections have been placed along the entire Russian coast, enclosing the Crimea, and the Russian fleet in the Black sea has been greatly strengthened. Germany, it is believed, will side with Austria to resist Russian aggression, not indeed out of any love for Austria, but to prevent undue preponderance of Russian power. England and France have as yet made no sign. But the former may be depended on always as heretofore to oppose Russian aggrandizement in Turkey, and the latter will certainly if a chance is afforded through the help of a powerful ally, make an effort to regain from Germany her lost provinces of Alsace and Lorraine. These statements may throw some light on the telegraph reports transmitted from day to day, to the effect that Russia is bent on war with Austria and has been so ever since the treaty of Berlin. "The peace of Europe" is always problematical. Latent causes of war always exist, which at any time may be blown into flame.

WILL GLADSTONE RETIRE?

A cable report furnishes the prediction that Mr. Gladstone's failing health will compel him to retire from office. Age grows upon him and it would not be surprising. He was seventy-three on the 29th of December last and cannot be expected to continue in active life, or even to live, much longer. For more than fifty years he has been in public life and may therefore be said to have fairly earned the right to retire.

He first entered parliament for Newark in 1832, and his whole life has been one of remarkable activity. To him his country owes electoral reform, the extension of the ballot, the disestablishment of the Irish church and the later measures for the relief of Ireland. He was a valuable ally of Sir Robert Peel in the repeal of the corn laws and other liberal legislation. Mr Gladstone has always been a "peace" man, detesting wars and opposing them whenever possible. He exerted himself to bring the Crimean war to a close and strongly denounced the Chinese war in 1857. It will be singular if he should retire before the echo of the cannon thundering against the Egyptian forts and of the shouts of the victorious British army at Tel-el-Kebir has fairly died away, thus closing a long public career marked by a humane aversion to war and bloodshed, in a blaze of military glory.

Many "stalwart" republican journals of the eastern states are fond of quoting Mr Beecher's prophecy that General Butler will be the next democratic candidate for the presidency. Which moves the Boston Post, a democratic organ, to remark that it would be rather fun if he should be the candidate whom these journals would do their best to elect. And yet it would not be strange, since there is an easy bridge from "stalwartism" to Butlerism. In fact they are virtually two parts of the same thing.

During last year there were fifty-four homicides in Chicago, not counting those which ... per cent. During the same period the ... the hangman were invoked but ... not in one of the cases where

MEANS OF PROSPERITY.

If the northwest could produce the tobacco and whisky it seems are necessary for its people, a very large proportion of the money which is every year sent out of the country might be kept at home and add so much to the aggregate wealth. Were the diversification of our industries in such directions expedient it might be within the province of journalism to advocate the production of these extensively used articles. But as there are so many other avenues to fortune not yet filled up in this country, and as the climate is not very good for some, it will perhaps be better for Oregon and Washington to stick to wheat raising as the surest means of paying for the heavy imports of tobacco and whisky the receipts of which articles at this port last year were over thirteen hundred thousand dollars, a sum which being paid out of what the year's wheat crop sold for, would leave no profit, but rather make a big hole in the gross proceeds. But in the absence of the facilities for producing these articles at home and in view of the great and increasing demand for them, it will ultimately become necessary for the people to tax their resources in other directions than in wheat raising in order to preserve anything like a prosperous condition of their finances. In this city alone the consumers of ardent spirits pay quite as much for their drinks as the whole wheat crop of any county in the state sells for, and nearly as much for tobacco. These two articles may be regarded as among the heaviest drafts on our resources and though men ought not to make whisky, and ignoring the injury which the use of tobacco does its votaries, it would probably be an unprofitable crop to raise in Oregon. But there are other articles almost as much in demand and somewhat more necessary which are now imported in large quantities at great cost, resources for the production of which are abundantly supplied in the state, so there would seem to be no good reason why they should not be made as cheaply here as in the eastern states, the labor supply being about as good here and about as cheap, except that the demand here is not at present so extensive as to justify the heavy investments which the more extensive manufacturing enterprises require. But that a greater diversification of the pursuits engaged in by the people of Oregon must be made before the acme of prosperity will be reached, there is no doubt. The extensive forests will furnish material out of which can be made everything wooden in use, while there is no longer room to doubt that the iron ore here found is as good as that of any other ferriferous region under the sun. Political demagogues and self-styled statesmen may expatiate upon the great advantages of a high tariff, or absolute free trade while the country grows poorer because of a lack of means and enterprise to develop its resources, but it only requires knowledge of the rules of calculation to show that when the iron to build our railroads and out of which to make thousands of implements in use every where is taken from its bed in our own state, and the timber for making cars, wagons, plows, wheelbarrows etc., etc. is cut from the forests at our doors instead of being shipped from foreign lands or from remote parts of our own country a vast saving of actual cash will be effected for our own people. It does not take a political philosopher to see that if we buy more than we sell, the time when we will be short of cash is sure to come. Wheat, wool and salmon have been our main reliance to keep the balance of trade anywhere near equally poised in the past, and with the rapid growth of the country the wants of the people in the aggregate will be so much increased that their resources for the production of these three staples will hardly be sufficient to equalize the immense outlay made for necessaries much less to furnish our moderately temperate people with their drink and smoking. There are many industries other than the three named which might be profitably engaged in, and no more opportune time to establish them is likely to offer than now. The competition is less than it will be in a few years, and the number of people to be supplied, now very considerable, is constantly and rapidly increasing. Portland owes to herself as the commercial and money center of the northwest, to encourage and organize some of the many industries the establishment of which will alone raise the prosperity of the country to a maximum. There is now no danger that such enterprises will meet with the limited patronage which kept other industries in a cramped and weak condition years ago. The people are sure to come in a few years in numbers sufficient to create a demand far above any possible supply that could be furnished with present facilities.

On the 12th February the people of Georgia will celebrate the 150th anniversary of the first English settlement in that colony. The idea of Gen. James Oglethorpe, who was the man most prominently connected with the settlement, was to open a place of refuge for poor debtors from England and give them an opportunity to recover their fortunes and standing and also to aid persons persecuted for religious belief on the continent of Europe. It was for these purposes that Oglethorpe secured a charter from King George II in June 1732 for the country lying between the Savannah and Altamaha and westward to the Pacific. The British parliament also appropriated £10,000 for the colony and it started prosperously. Oglethorpe is abundantly worthy to be honored by the Georgians. His Indian policy was as humane as that of Penn and his unselfish devotion to the welfare of his unfortunate fellow men is deserving of all praise.

There seems to be a misapprehension in the minds of some of THE OREGONIAN's readers as to the law passed by the last legislature concerning the running at large of swine. A correspondent at Wagoner, Grant county sends us two bills, one cut from THE OREGONIAN and another from the Salem Statesman with the inquiry as to which one is actually the law. The clipping from this paper was the bill as originally presented to the legislature which by a mistake was stated to be the law. The clipping from the Salem Statesman was the law as passed and signed by the governor and our correspondent will find the same published in THE DAILY OREGONIAN of January 2d and WEEKLY OREGONIAN of January 5th.

Gov Foster of Ohio favors the submission to the people of his state of a constitutional amendment giving the legislature full control of the liquor traffic, which means the repeal of the present anti license clause of the free liquor constitution of Ohio. He also favors the enactment of a uniform tax law. The Ohio State Journal says: These recommendations will meet with the bitter opposition of the prohibitionists as will anything that does not embrace their own impracticable views. But the great question now is what is attainable and not what would the extremists be satisfied with.

The incarceration of ten or a dozen boys under the age of 16 years in the county jail at this time where they are obliged to associate with criminals of the blackest kind ought to stir up the mind of every person of thought and awaken a general interest in the speedy provision of some other place where such as have not gone beyond the point where reformation is hopeless, could be put under influences that are not altogether vicious and degrading.

Whitman College at Walla Walla, under the presidency of A. J. Anderson Ph. D., is in a prosperous condition. It is receiving endowments from the east and liberal aid from the people of Walla Walla. Two complete college courses, classical and scientific, are given. A building to cost $15,000 will be erected next spring.

It is now claimed that Arabi Pasha's banishment to Ceylon means virtual freedom. He was tried and sentenced by a native court, and the English law allows no one to be held in restraint upon its soil unless sentenced by a British court.

Basking in the sunlight of hope Mr Rufus Hatch sees his Yellowstone park hotels rising magnificently on the horizon of the future. But the report from Washington shows that there are such things as congressional clouds.

TOWN OF FAIRVIEW.

LOCATED AT FAIRVIEW STATION ON THE O. R. & N. Co. railroad twelve miles from Portland. The train leaves Albina at 4 55 P. M. and arrives at Fairview at about 5 30. It leaves Fairview at about 6 30 A. M. and arrives at 8 10 A. M.
The location is beautiful and healthy. Situated as it is, in the midst of a prosperous farming community, the town is destined to be a place of business as well as of pleasant residences.
Buildings.—There is at present a good schoolhouse, a Methodist church, a store, a blacksmith shop and a few nice residences in the town, which is at the intersection of the Sandy road and the railroad.
The lots are put upon the market at surprisingly low prices, ranging from Forty to Sixty Dollars each.
A Temperance Town.—Every deed will provide against the sale of liquors. Persons engaged in business in Portland can have a convenient and pleasant country residence and thus provide against the temptations their children are submitted to in a large city.
Come and see a map of the town and full information.

TUESDAY MORNING, JAN. 16, 1883.

"NO COMPROMISE."

It is a great mistake on the part of temperance advocates to refer so frequently as many of them constantly do to the tax on intoxicating liquors as "an unholy tax." This is the opposite extreme of "free whisky," and it is curious to observe that the two extremes of untaxed liquors and impracticable prohibition, though hating each other intensely, nevertheless practically meet together in their work in a common cause. Every effort of injudicious advocates of the temperance cause to prevent the taxation of the manufacture and sale of liquors aids and strengthens the traffic they condemn. What would those who talk of the "unholy tax" do? Would they remove the tax and give us free whisky? Enforce prohibition they cannot; but the tax can be enforced, and liquor dealers generally make no objection to paying it. This revenue regulation of the liquor business has been highly beneficial in many ways. Our own experience here in Portland shows that it has closed all places of the worst character. Is it an "unholy tax" that shuts up dens of vice and infamy like those which have been closed in this city? Observe that they could be shut up in no other way. Again, the tax on liquors goes far towards keeping the local and national governments in running order. For many years it has been a great factor in the maintenance of public credit at home and abroad. It has paid pensions, carried the mails, improved rivers and harbors and reduced the national debt, or helped to do all these things. It is said, however, that this is a "sordid" view of the case. Is it? No one denies that consumption of intoxicating liquors is a source of many and great evils. But since all experience proves that the consumption cannot be stopped, why not adopt regulations to make it contribute to support of government? Is not this the sensible way? We are told that the issue is "between prohibition and free whisky," and that there must be "no compromise." Then "free whisky" will carry the day. For no law or other device ever has been or ever will be able to stop the consumption of liquors. But the manufacture, sale and consumption of liquors will not be permitted to be "free." The business cannot be suppressed, and therefore will be taxed. We regret that a writer whose letter appears to-day has read this journal so hastily as to suppose its utterances on this subject to be "gibes" at "the seeming discomfiture which prohibition has sustained in different sections of the country." THE OREGONIAN has simply referred to these events as further proofs that prohibition cannot be made successful, and has endeavored to use them to show how the liquor question can be dealt with in the most practical and effective way. In an ideal state of society we should probably have no liquors, and therefore should want no liquor laws. But the regulations of government must conform to facts as they exist. They cannot deal with society as an ideal thing, or with man in a beatified state. High license is the extreme measure of restriction that can be enforced in dealing with the liquor question, and even that cannot be enforced in all places. In the rural districts of almost every state a prohibitory law would, indeed, find little or no opposition; but temperance prevails in those places without regard to statutes, and prohibitory laws fail just where there would be most need of them if they could be made effective. True wisdom, in dealing with this and all other matters, instead of soaring in the clouds or beating the air, would do what there is a chance to accomplish.

THE PEACE OF EUROPE.

Russia, it is said, is bent on war with Austria. Turkey is the bone of contention; but it is not probable that Russia would be permitted to promote an aggressive policy in that direction without encountering German opposition, and English opposition too, should Russian designs prove really menacing. A London letter says Germany and Austria are strengthening their fortresses on their frontiers, double-tracking their railroads in that direction so as to be able to move vast masses of men and materials on short notice, and are on an actual war footing at this time of two millions of men armed with all the modern appliances of warfare. Nor is Russia by any means idle. Her armies have been enlarged and strengthened; double-track railways have been constructed along her western and southern frontiers, and chains of the strongest fortresses have been completed, reaching all the way to the Black sea. Torpedo protections have been placed along the entire Russian coast, enclosing the Crimea, and the Russian fleet in the Black sea has been greatly strengthened. Germany, it is believed, will side with Austria to resist Russian aggression, not indeed out of any love for Austria, but to prevent undue preponderance of Russian power. England and France have as yet made no sign. But the former may be depended on always as heretofore to oppose Russian aggrandizement in Turkey; and the latter will certainly, if a chance is afforded through the help of a powerful ally, make an effort to regain from Germany her lost provinces of Alsace and Lorraine. These statements may throw some light on the telegraph reports transmitted from day to day, to the effect that Russia is bent on war with Austria, and has been so ever since the treaty of Berlin. "The peace of Europe" is always problematical. Latent causes of war always exist, which at any time may be blown into flame.

WILL GLADSTONE RETIRE?

A cable report found us the prediction that Mr. Gladstone's failing health will compel him to retire from office. Age grows upon him, and it would not be surprising. He was seventy-three on the 29th of December last, and cannot be expected to continue in active life, or even to live, much longer. For more than fifty years he has been in public life, and may therefore be said to have fairly earned the right to retire.

He first entered parliament for Newark in 1832, and his whole life has been one of remarkable activity. To him his country owes electoral reform, the extension of the ballot, the disestablishment of the Irish church and the later measures for the relief of Ireland. He was a valuable ally of Sir Robert Peel in the repeal of the corn laws and other liberal legislation. Mr. Gladstone has always been a "peace" man, detesting wars and opposing them whenever possible. He exerted himself to bring the Crimean war to a close and strongly denounced the Chinese war in 1857. It will be singular if he should retire before the echo of the cannon thundering against the Egyptian forts and of the shouts of the victorious British army at Tel-el-Kebir has fairly died away, thus closing a long public career marked by a humane aversion to war and bloodshed, in a blaze of military glory.

Many "stalwart" republican journals of the eastern states are fond of quoting Mr. Beecher's prophecy that General Butler will be the next democratic candidate for the presidency. Which moves the Boston Post, a democratic organ, to remark that it would be rather funny if he should be the candidate whom these journals would do their best to elect. And yet it would not be strange, since there is an easy bridge from "stalwartism" to Butlerism. In fact they are virtually two parts of the same thing.

During last year there were fifty-four homicides in Chicago, not counting those which [illegible] Vermont. During the same period the [illegible] the hangman were invoked but [illegible] not in one of the cases where [illegible]

MEANS OF PROSPERITY.

If the northwest could produce the tobacco and whisky it seems are necessary to its people, a very large proportion of the money which is every year sent to the east to pay for them might be kept at home and added to the aggregate wealth. Were the diversification of our industries such [illegible] that it might be within the province of journalism to advocate the production of these extensively [illegible]. But as there are yet many other avenues to be taken [illegible] up in this country, and as these are [illegible] very good for some, it will perhaps be better for Oregon and Washington to stick to wheat raising as the surest means of paying for the heavy imports of tobacco and whisky, the receipts of which articles at this port last year were over thirteen hundred thousand dollars, a sum which being paid out of what this year's wheat crop sold for, would leave no profit, but rather make a big hole in the gross proceeds. But in the absence of the facilities for producing these articles at home, and in view of the great and increasing demand for them, it will ultimately become necessary for the people to tax their resources in other directions than in wheat raising in order to preserve anything like a prosperous condition of their finances. In this city alone the consumers of ardent spirits pay quite as much for their drinks as the whole wheat crop of any county in the state sells for, and nearly as much for tobacco. These two articles may be regarded as among the heaviest drafts on our resources, and though man ought not to make whisky, and ignoring the injury which the use of tobacco does its votaries, it would probably be an unprofitable crop to raise in Oregon. But there are other articles almost as much in demand, and somewhat more necessary, which are now imported in large quantities at great cost, resources for the production of which are abundantly supplied in the state; so there would seem to be no good reason why they should not be made as cheaply here as in the eastern states, the labor supply being about as good here and about as cheap, except that the demand here is not at present so extensive as to justify the heavy investments which the inauguration of many manufacturing enterprises requires. But that a greater diversification of the pursuits engaged in by the people of Oregon must be made before the acme of prosperity will be reached, there is no doubt. The extensive forests will furnish material out of which can be made everything wooden in use, while there is no longer room to doubt that the iron ore here found is as good as that of any other ferriferous region under the sun. Political demagogues and self-styled statesmen may expatiate upon the great advantages of a high tariff, or absolute free trade, while the country grows poorer, because of a lack of means and enterprise to develop its resources; but it only requires knowledge of the rules of calculation to show that when the iron to build our railroads and out of which to make the tools of implements in use everywhere, is taken from its bed in our own state, and the timber for making cars, wagons, plows, wheelbarrows, etc., etc., is cut from the forests at our doors, instead of being shipped from foreign lands or from remote parts of our own country, a vast saving of actual cash will be effected for our own people. It does not take a political philosopher to see that if we buy more than we sell, the time when we will be short of cash is sure to come. Wheat, wool and salmon have been our main reliance to keep the balance of trade anywhere near equally poised in the past, and with the rapid growth of the country the wants of the people in the aggregate will be so much increased that their resources for the production of those three staples will hardly be sufficient to equalize the enormous outlay made for necessaries, much less to furnish our moderately temperate people with their drink and smoking. There are many industries other than the three named which might be profitably engaged in, and no more opportune time to establish them is likely to offer than now. The competition is less than it will be in a few years, and the number of people to be supplied, now very considerable, is constantly and rapidly increasing. Portland owes to herself, as the commercial and money-center of the northwest, to encourage and organize some of the many industries the establishment of which will alone raise the prosperity of the country to a maximum. There is now no danger that such enterprises will meet with the limited patronage which kept other industries in a cramped and weak condition years ago. The people are sure to come in a few years in numbers sufficient to create a demand far above any possible supply that could be furnished with present facilities.

On the 12th February the people of Georgia will celebrate the 150th anniversary of the first English settlement in that "colony." The idea of Gen. James Oglethorpe, who was the man most prominently connected with the settlement, was to open a place of refuge for poor debtors from England and give them an opportunity to recover their fortunes and standing, and also to aid persons persecuted for religious belief on the continent of Europe. It was for these purposes that Oglethorpe secured a charter from King George II. in June, 1732, for the country lying between the Savannah and Altamaha and westward to the Pacific. The British parliament also appropriated £10,000 for the colony, and it started prosperously. Oglethorpe is abundantly worthy to be honored by the Georgians. His Indian policy was as humane as that of Penn, and his unselfish devotion to the welfare of his unfortunate fellow-men is deserving of all praise.

There seems to be a misapprehension in the minds of some of THE OREGONIAN'S readers as to the law passed by the last legislature concerning the running at large of swine. A correspondent at Wagoner, Grant county, sends us two bills, one cut from THE OREGONIAN and another from the Salem Statesman, with the inquiry as to which one is actually the law. The clipping from this paper was the bill as originally presented to the legislature, which, by a mistake was stated to be the law. The clipping from the Salem Statesman was the law as passed and signed by the governor, and our correspondent will find the same published in THE DAILY OREGONIAN of January 24 and WEEKLY OREGONIAN of January 5th.

Gov. Foster of Ohio favors the submission to the people of his state of a constitutional amendment giving the legislature full control of the liquor traffic, which means the repeal of the present anti-license clause of the free-liquor constitution of Ohio. He also favors the enactment of a uniform tax law. The Ohio State Journal says: "These recommendations will meet with the bitter opposition of the prohibitionists, as will anything that does not embrace their own impracticable views. But the great question now is what is attainable and not what would the extremists be satisfied with."

The incarceration of ten or a dozen boys under the age of 16 years in the county jail, at this time where they are obliged to associate with criminals of the blackest kind, ought to stir up the mind of every person of thought and awaken a general interest in the speedy provision of some other place where such as have not gone beyond the point where reformation is hopeless could be put under influences that are not altogether vicious and degrading.

Whitman College at Walla Walla, under the presidency of A. J. Anderson, Ph. D., is in a prosperous condition. It is receiving endowments from the east and liberal aid from the people of Walla Walla. Two complete college courses, classical and scientific, are given. A building to cost $15,000 will be erected next spring.

[illegible] Yesterday [illegible] See Kee, a most rugged and [illegible] specimen of the Mongolian race, occupied a [illegible] place upon the prison [illegible] about yesterday. He sat there [illegible] [illegible] contemplatively chewing [illegible] and not paying even the least attention [illegible] the utterances of Counselor [illegible] [illegible] to prove the innocence of a young [illegible] on the charge of [illegible] a Chinese lantern. [illegible] Chinaman did not interest him. He had [illegible] by [illegible] as a [illegible] frequenting the streets of [illegible] [illegible] case came up [illegible] charge read to him. He [illegible] and took back [illegible] testified and some [illegible] [illegible] and suddenly [illegible] he began an earnest defense [illegible] [illegible] replied and [illegible] [illegible] from among the crowd [illegible] [illegible] the stairs and [illegible] [illegible] "Me work on [illegible] [illegible] Saw wood here, work [illegible] [illegible] Make money [illegible] China [illegible] been [illegible] get to [illegible] No got friends." [illegible] [illegible] oblivious to everything and would [illegible] there. The judge believed the [illegible] genuine and sent him to the county jail [illegible] days.

[illegible] OLD, THE DAYS OF GOLD.—The men [illegible] delved the hills and gulches of California [illegible] the spring of '50 are growing scarce, but [illegible] there one is still found. Last evening one [illegible] prominent citizen and solid business men, [illegible] an article in Sunday's OREGONIAN, [illegible] Claims in the Mines," in which was [illegible] [illegible] the denizens of a mining camp presented [illegible] with $800 at Christmas, said: "It is [illegible] that many who read that story will hardly [illegible] but it was nothing uncommon for those [illegible] the mines of California in '51, when [illegible] In '55 I had a claim in Grizzly [illegible] paid me $300 per day for three months, [illegible] the yield came down to $250 per day [illegible] for a hardware store and blacksmith [illegible] the spring of '59 a party of miners about [illegible] number, while on their way from Amer[illegible] to Hangtown or Placerville, El Dorado [illegible] through Smith's camp saw some [illegible] waving from a pole used as a [illegible] They called at the cabin and asked to [illegible] the lady to whom the garments be[illegible] A good, tidy looking German woman fresh [illegible] country stepped to the door and the [illegible] took a good look at the first woman [illegible] for many a long day. One of the [illegible] out a long buckskin purse well filled [illegible] dust, and taking her to hold out her [illegible] a liberal shower of the glittering gold [illegible] was followed in turn by each of the [illegible] their contributions amounted to about [illegible] it became necessary to place a support [illegible] apron." Among Mr. Abbey's famous at[illegible] he never had one, not even Mrs. Langtry, [illegible] draw an $800 benefit.

[illegible] COUNTY JAIL.—The county jail is over[illegible] there being some 65 persons incarcerated [illegible] A glance through the corridors [illegible] if not pleasing. The prisoners are of [illegible] the lilt a chicken stealing hoodlum [illegible] many nationalities. When at this [illegible] called there yesterday, a full-blooded [illegible] Ophagan, was raising a tremendous row [illegible] was parading [illegible] the boys in the [illegible] Dogberry went in to settle the diffi[illegible] boys in the other corridor were [illegible] [illegible] like monkeys in a cage to see [illegible] going on. In one corridor were four [illegible] for murder, squatting stolidly on the [illegible] long hair hanging down over the gaudy [illegible] blankets in which they were wrapped, [illegible] of Chinamen pace uneasily up and [illegible] The sight of so many boys locked up with [illegible] was a painful one, especially as the [illegible] that they gave him more trouble, and [illegible] more reckless than the grown up prison[illegible] appears to be no use in talking or writ[illegible] reform school, but if any person wishes to [illegible] of the necessity for such an in[illegible] him pay a visit to the county jail. An[illegible] alleged fratricide, was buried up in his [illegible] been complaining the past few days. [illegible] former, was receiving a visit from his [illegible] who spent a considerable time each [illegible] to him through the grated door of his [illegible] who eloped with another man's wife, [illegible] his cell impatiently. A number of sa[illegible] [illegible] held as witnesses, were sitting [illegible] listless indifference. Taken altogether, [illegible] jail is not a pleasant place to spend a [illegible]

[illegible]—THE OTHER LADY.—The cases of Ho [illegible] and the girl, Gew Chi, the parties [illegible] Hong, by habeas corpus, were [illegible] Judge Deady yesterday. In the case [illegible] it was decided that it was not necessary [illegible] any one coming here from China [illegible] certificate, and as long as he was able to [illegible] was not a laborer, he was entitled to [illegible] Ho King was allowed to stay. The case of [illegible] brought into court by Judge Woodward [illegible] of a number of Chinese merchants, [illegible] to have the matter settled as to [illegible] Chinese woman [illegible] within the meaning [illegible] "laborer," as used in the restriction [illegible] of the question is a matter of [illegible] to the Chinese residents here, some [illegible] to bring their female relations here [illegible] are prevented from doing so by the [illegible] no decision was arrived at [illegible] it was cut short by the girl saying that [illegible] to go to Hong Kong. This proposition [illegible] to by the counsel and the court, and [illegible] on board the steamer.

[illegible] ARRESTED.—Yesterday Chief [illegible] received a dispatch from Sheriff [illegible] county, W. T., directing him to [illegible] Murphy, of Dayton, who would arrive [illegible] O. R. & N. Co.'s road last evening. De[illegible] & Barry found Murphy and his w[illegible] at the St. Charles and arrested him and [illegible] the police station. He was on the rep[illegible] of a prominent business man here al[illegible] to his hotel to spend the night in [illegible] officers. It is not known what the [illegible] Murphy is but Sheriff Bosler will be [illegible] and explain. Murphy came from Red [illegible] to Dayton about two months ago and [illegible] store which he has been running ever [illegible] that he has a store at Red Bluff and [illegible] there wrote to him that as money had [illegible] at New York as it should, there was a [illegible] of the concern being attached and that [illegible] down there to arrange matters. It is [illegible] Murphy's creditors at Dayton when he [illegible] he was absconding and caused his ar[illegible]

[illegible] SHATTERED.—The typographical union [illegible] formed in this city did a very praiseworthy [illegible] admitting to equal membership the female [illegible] in the different offices who by their [illegible] proven themselves competent in every [illegible] But the boys little knew or even sus[illegible] equal to this action which has just been [illegible] through the gossiping of the girls. [illegible] was asked how she liked the new hon[illegible] a member of a secret society. "Oh, I's [illegible] replied, "but I didn't think as much of [illegible] used to. We girls talked the matter over [illegible] to be compelled to keep in the back[illegible] when the meetings were called to order, we [illegible] much about constitution and by-laws, [illegible] rules of procedure, and sergeants [illegible] and lots of other things, but when we got [illegible] the men just squabbled, and got mad, and [illegible] all at once just as bad as the women do. [illegible] talk to me about 'men any more!'" and [illegible] in her look at the rate of 800 [illegible] great was her indignation.

[illegible] TO PROBATE.—The will of the late Jas. [illegible] was admitted to probate in the county [illegible] Monday. The document is dated June 5, [illegible] after providing for the payment of his [illegible] and funeral expenses, and the giving [illegible] to his children, the remainder of his [illegible] both real and personal, is given to his [illegible] R. Holman, in fee simple absolutely to [illegible] and dispose of as she may [illegible] desire. It appoints Judge E. C. [illegible] and his son Fred V. Holman as executors, [illegible] being so actuated that he cannot [illegible] trust it a county court has appoint[illegible] his son sole executor. The property is [illegible] mainly of a part of lot 4, block 78, [illegible] improvements, valued at the foot of Wash[illegible] street, valued at $17,000, forming part of [illegible] dock. The bulk of the property is situated [illegible] W. T.

[illegible] CHARGE.—The hullabaloo raised by an [illegible] newspaper of this city about the "stealing" [illegible] of its issue of Saturday morning by an [illegible] carrier boy is ridiculous. The boy [illegible] steal the copy at all, nor did he attempt to [illegible] With a boy's curiosity he picked up the [illegible] to look at it—it was the first copy he had [illegible] for a moment intending to carry it away. [illegible] stated the case to the court he was dis[illegible] with a reprimand, which was deserved, of [illegible] since he had no right to touch it, or any [illegible] paper—but the charge of attempting to [illegible] was so absurd that no one appeared to [illegible] against him. The insinuation that the boy [illegible] instructed or employed to "steal" copies of the [illegible] is what is termed an organized effort of this [illegible] against the concern, could emanate only from a [illegible] mind.

[illegible] GERMAN SUFFERERS.—From all parts of [illegible] States have come reports of large sums [illegible] to sufferers by the recent floods in Ger[illegible] A considerable sum has been raised among [illegible] and other business men in the commu[illegible] it is urgently desired to send still more. The [illegible] of trade has taken the matter in hand, and a [illegible] will call on the members asking for con[illegible] Money so raised will be called the [illegible] Board of Trade Fund." Laying aside the [illegible] of charity which a stricken people are [illegible] from a prosperous one, generous contri[illegible] will redound not only to Portland's credit, [illegible] permanent prosperity. Oregon expects [illegible] a large immigration from Germany, and [illegible] will warm their hearts toward us.

[illegible] FOR A CATTLE THIEF.—A deputy sheriff [illegible] county is in the city looking after a [illegible] named O. Dickman. He was convicted [illegible] term of the state circuit court of that [illegible] two charges, and while waiting for sen[illegible] jail by cutting through the window cas[illegible] breaking down an iron bar. He then put [illegible] unknown.

[illegible]—The State of California crossed in Yes[illegible] and arrived at Astoria at 2 o'clock [illegible] down before the time of her depart[illegible] could be learned. She left at 4 [illegible] here at 11:30.

ON THE ANXIOUS SEAT.—The office of U. S. District Attorney Watson was thronged yesterday afternoon with a number of the leading Chinese merchants of this city who were anxiously waiting for Judge Deady's decision in regard to the [illegible] Ho King. The [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] was sticking [illegible] [illegible] whether he was [illegible] [illegible] at the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Chinese [illegible] waiting [illegible]

[illegible].—[illegible] Bechtel [illegible] sheriff of [illegible] county, to recover damages for the releasing of property levied by the sheriff [illegible] [illegible] was tried in the circuit court yesterday before Judge Stearns and a jury. It appears that the property [illegible] belonged to two parties, and the sheriff required the plaintiff to give a bond to indemnify him in case [illegible] [illegible] and it was [illegible] [illegible]. A motion for a nonsuit and for striking the testimony to that effect was allowed by Judge Stearns. [illegible] plaintiff's counsel, the [illegible] with [illegible] was [illegible]

[illegible] Liberty Council No. [illegible] was organized last Sunday evening at [illegible] hall with [illegible] members. [illegible] organizer and founder of this society [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] officers: [illegible] president; Mrs. Kittermann, governor; [illegible] lieutenant governor; Mrs. [illegible] secretary; [illegible] treasurer; S. B. [illegible] [illegible] Alex. Sutherland and Mrs. A. Miller [illegible] [illegible] Hughes and Mrs. Clark.

[illegible] THIEVES [illegible].—Martin Donaldson, Tony Gilham, Michael McLaughlin and Eugene Oliver, arrested for stealing ducks and chickens, were yesterday arraigned in the police court and pleaded guilty in a chorus. Some of these boys are old offenders, but this is McLaughlin's first appearance in the police court. The gang of young poultry thieves are now well broken up, and chickens may safely roost low, at least for a few weeks. Donaldson was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, Gilham got 20 days, Oliver 20, and McLaughlin 12.

PRISONER ESCAPED.—Some time since one Jim Lacy stole a wagon at Walla Walla, and starting out on a foraging expedition captured a hot stove at one ranch and a man's wife at another, and had succeeded in getting "thirty miles away" before he was overtaken by justice—John Justice, marshal of Walla Walla's fair city. Lacy was sent to the territorial penitentiary at Seatco for four years. A few days since he made his escape, and now a reward of $50 is offered for his capture. While he is at large no stove is safe.

REVERSING CHANNELS OF TRADE.—Yesterday a well known mill owner of Umatilla county applied to the O. R. & N. Co. for rates on wheat from Portland to Umatilla, saying that the supply of grain in his section beyond that required for seeding was exhausted. On account of increased immigration, the requirements of new ground for seeding, the consumption by railroad hands and new settlers who are not yet producers, it is not unlikely that the Willamette valley surplus will have to be drawn on before next harvest.

ALL ABOUT A STAKE.—Eli Morrill, the truckman, was tried yesterday before Justice Bullock, of East Portland, on the charge of larceny of a truck stake, preferred by the driver of one of Mr. Neppach's trucks. Morrill was promptly acquitted, the evidence showing that he had simply reclaimed property which he believed to be his. After the trial, he and Mr. Neppach arbitrated the question of the ownership of the stake, which was decided in Mr. Morrill's favor.

AMICABLY ARRANGED.—Sheriff Wm. Martin, of Umatilla county, who was arrested by U. S. Marshal Kearney on a charge of obstructing and interfering with the process of the U. S. courts, was allowed to return home yesterday on his own recognizance. The adjustment of the little discrepancy between the United States and state authorities as to the prior right to try the Indian murderers brought down by Marshal Kearney has been postponed till the 29th inst.

WEDDING.—Last night Mr. Alfred F. Kelly, of San Francisco, was married to Miss Fannie Raleigh. The ceremony took place at the cathedral, corner of Third and Stark streets, which was crowded with friends of the contracting parties. The attendants were Miss Sara Kelly, sister of the groom, with Mr. John Sheehy and Miss Belle Malarkey with Mr. Milton Cody. A family reception was held at the residence of Mr. John S. Raleigh.

NEW DEPARTURE.—Mrs. E. L. Weeks has been appointed agent for Wells Fargo & Co. at Sand Point, Idaho. Eugene Shelby, route agent of the express company, states that this is the first lady agent appointed by the company in the northwest. Sand Point has the reputation of being a very tough place, and it may be that the men were afraid to accept the position of agent.

SNOW.—There was a light fall of snow in the city yesterday morning, but it soon disappeared and the day was cold with occasional drizzling showers. Wood wagons which came in from the hills west of the city were covered to the depth of an inch. The [illegible] river boat came through light snow fall from Astoria to St. Helens. At Walla Walla four inches fell.

PORTLAND TO KALAMA.—Proposals for grading and bridging the Northern Pacific extension from Portland to Kalama are asked for by the supervising engineer, H. Thielsen, and will be received until the 27th inst. Maps and profiles are to be seen in the engineer's office.

MURDER CONFESSED.

Owenby Says that He Killed Cummins at New York Bar, and Implicates Others.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DAYTON, W. T., Jan. 15.—The jury in the Owenby case, after twenty-four hours' deliberation, failed to agree, being seven for conviction. While the jury were out and before they were discharged, Owenby confessed that he and J. M. McPherson, Ezra Snodderly and J. Porter, of Pomeroy, committed the deed; that he fired the first three shots, and that McPherson and Snodderly did the balance. McPherson, he said, cut Cummins' throat. Porter seems to have been cognizant of the affair, but was not present. The confession was made in the presence of two witnesses and sworn to by the prisoner. Warrants were immediately issued for the arrest of the three men implicated by Owenby. Two of them were witnesses in his defense. They are probably arrested by this time.

Their Arrest.

POMEROY, W. T., Jan. 15.—Johnson Porter, of the firm of Mulkey Bros. & Porter, hardware merchants of this place, J. P. McPherson and Ezra Snodderly, farmers, were arrested last night upon the confession of Owenby as accomplices in the murder of E. H. Cummins, the O. R. & N. Co.'s agent at New York bar last July. They will be taken to Dayton to-day for trial.

[Officers of the O. R. & N. Co. in this city who were interviewed yesterday regard the confession as decidedly "fishy." Cummins was robbed of about $700, and Owenby was known to have had $500 immediately after the murder. If these men were accessories, they allowed Owenby too large a share of the swag.]

DEATH AT SEA.

Isaac Barman, the well known merchant, died Saturday aboard the steamer State of California, as she was passing out of the Golden Gate to sea. He had been hopelessly ill of consumption for some time, and expressed the wish to die in Portland and be buried by the side of the late Mrs. Barman, his wife's mother. He was carried to the steamer on a stretcher, half an hour before she started. The body was packed in ice and brought to this city, reaching here at half past eleven last night. On account of the prostration of the line to Astoria, his relatives and friends were not advised of the death, and the sad news was conveyed to them only after the steamer landed. His age was forty-six years.

PERSONAL.

Capt. Geo. Flavel of Astoria is at the Clarendon.

John Conn leaves on the steamer to-night for New York.

Miss Nellie Galbraith, of Walla Walla, is stopping in the city for the purpose of attending school.

Col. Frank J. Parker, editor of the Walla Walla Statesman, is in the city and leaves for home to-morrow.

Frank T. Dodge, superintendent of the river division of the O. R. & N. Co., has gone to Astoria on official business.

Dr. H. P. Jones, who is attending R. Haberkam, states that his sickness is a case of typhoid fever. He has been very sick, but symptoms are favorable and his early recovery is confidently expected.

A SUGAR REFINERY

TO BE ESTABLISHED IN PORTLAND BY SPRECKELS.

Claus Spreckels, Jr., Now in the City, Looking Over the Situation—He Talks Freely to an Oregonian Reporter.

[illegible] [illegible] San Francisco [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] arrival last night [illegible] [illegible] land, for several weeks [illegible] visit to [illegible] Spreckels replied that [illegible] [illegible] same time was looking [illegible] of at some future day establishing [illegible] Portland [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] has [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Mr. Spreckels [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] capacity of the new works [illegible] per day. The capacity of the old works [illegible] about [illegible] tons per day. We expect to have the new establishment in operation in about two months."

"When the Northern Pacific is finished will you be able to make terms with it as with the Central Pacific, so as to control the trade of the traffic [illegible] against eastern competition?" asked the reporter.

"I know of no arrangements," replied Mr. Spreckels, "which we [illegible] It has been common talk, I know, but the idea of such a small interest as sugar refining on this coast being able to subsidize two or three transcontinental railways (I quote the gossip) is preposterous. Sugar carriage has always been two cents per pound across the continent until about three years ago, when it was reduced to one cent in the interest of California [illegible]. They failed in the business competition with us at this reduced rate, while the railroad company lost money by it through loss of tariff on the British sugar, which it carried through in bond for British Columbia. Their loss of one cent per pound on this foreign sugar freight amounted to about $50,000 per year. (I speak in round numbers.) While there was absolutely no compensation in sugar freights for the coast trade, for none was brought across. To protect themselves they put up the figures to the old rate, and out of this move, with which our house had nothing to do, has grown the talk to which your question refers. As to the Northern Pacific, they are now carrying sugar for us into Montana and southern Idaho. We shall have no other relations with them than as producers on the one hand and carriers on the other."

"It is reported," said the reporter, "that your father has gone east in the effort to secure extension of the reciprocity treaty. What of it?"

Answer—I do not very much whether he will visit Washington at all. He has gone to New York on business in connection with our new refinery and has no interest in the [illegible] or abrogation of the treaty.

Question—Do you expect to control the trade of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana when the Northern Pacific is completed against eastern competition?

A.—We do. We expect to supply from our establishment at San Francisco and from the proposed works at Portland all that region west of the Mississippi river.

Q.—Various reports are in circulation as to your control of the Hawaiian sugar crop. Will you give the facts?

A.—It is true that we do control the entire island crop, which amounts to sixty-five thousand tons per year, by means of purchase contracts, which control may be [illegible] paying as high a price as we do for the same. Eastern refineries have at various times sent agents there for the purpose of buying the crop, but as they were not willing to match our offers, they did not succeed. That's all there is of the matter.

Q.—Who brought the Manila and Hawaiian sugar which arrived at San Francisco last week, and how were they able [illegible] [illegible] Hawaiian sugars which come free?

A.—"We bought the Manila sugar and are always buying Manila sugar to compete with the island sugar for the reason that we pay the Hawaiian planters the same price as the price of Manila sugar costs laid down in the port of San Francisco duty paid. We make a difference in the purchase which covers the duty on the Manila sugar. We bought the Manila sugar because the island supply was not sufficient for our uses. By this you will see that as refiners we are not benefited in the least by the reciprocity treaty, as the planter and not the refiner receives the benefit of the amount of duty waived."

Ques.—What would be the advantage to Portland of such a refinery as you will establish here?

Answer—In our San Francisco refinery we employ directly over three hundred men, and indirectly about seven times that number. The consumption of fuel and of [illegible] makes the works an extensive market of itself. In Portland our establishment will be smaller, but it would be safe to calculate that it will give employment to at least a thousand men, about one hundred and twenty of whom would be at skilled labor rates.

Mr. Spreckels will remain to-day in Portland and will go to-morrow to Seattle. He will return to Portland on Friday, and take the "State" Friday night for home.

YAQUINA BAY NOTES

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

NEWPORT, Jan. 9, 1883.

The weather here is very fine; warm and balmy like spring.

The Oneatta saw mills have shut down until they can get a supply of logs.

Where is the doctor that is looking for a good healthy location? Let him come here.

Jas. Brassfield's new store is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy next week.

The mails have not got the crook out of them yet. They are now carried to Elk City in a small boat.

The city of Newport is to have a bulkhead all along her front. This is a good improvement and will make her look up in good style.

Diphtheria has made its appearance on the bay. Several of Hon. Alfred Parker's family are afflicted with it, but no deaths have occurred yet.

Miss Morrison attended the New Year's ball at Elk City, was taken ill next day, and died yesterday. She leaves an afflicted family and many friends to mourn her loss.

Mr. J. S. Pettingill has returned and resumed charge of the government works. He had a very rough trip, not having to [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] where the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The steamer Ona will sail for Portland to-day. The four brought by her [illegible] all consumed and there is not a sack to be bought on the bay. The Ona will return as soon as she can make the trip.

It is reported here to-day that the O. P. R. R. have suspended operations on the tunnels and grades, retaining only the [illegible]. Whether this is only temporary or not remains to be seen. The great question here is, "What are the future prospects of Yaquina bay if no railroad is put through."

THE ASSESSMENT LAW.

EAST PORTLAND, Jan. 15.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In Senator Davenport's first letter he declared that the assessor of Multnomah would look in vain for legal instructions to assess his county the coming year. I provoked him some way in my reply, and now he reiterates that statement once still, further and declares in effect that there is no law authorizing assessments in any county in 1883. I am almost afraid to provoke him further for fear he will declare that the state constitution makes no provision for raising revenue.

But for fear of the dire calamity which would befall our state if our sources of revenue should be cut off, I must try and produce the legislative "fly" and "name the section, title, page, etc." Sec. 18, chap. 41, page 640: "There shall be elected at a general election by the qualified electors of each county a county treasurer, county assessor, etc., who shall hold their offices for the term of two years," etc.

Sec. 1 of act Oct. 20, 1870: "Assessors shall enter upon their offices on the first day of March next after the general election at which they were chosen and shall serve two years," etc.

Sec. 10, chap. 57, title 2, page 775: "The assessor after qualifying as prescribed by law shall immediately procure from the county clerk a blank assessment roll and forthwith proceed and assess all taxable property within his county," etc.

Sec. 26, chap. 57, page 778: "It shall be the duty of the county assessors in this state when making their assessments for each year, etc. The above references cover all the grounds in dispute. The senator says in effect there is no law for making assessments in 1883. Let us see under the law referred to above: County assessors were elected in June, 1882 for two years, commencing March 1, 1883, at which date they will proceed and assess all taxable property in their counties and file their assessment rolls on the first Monday in September, 1883, and proceed under the law each year until their successors are elected and qualified. W. L. H. has published a statement of the case which will satisfy all reasonable men of the sufficiency of existing law for making assessments, and as to the main issue between the senator and myself, the merits of the present assessors bill, I will admit that it was a first rate bill of the kind, and will be generous enough to let him have the last say. I know how he feels over its defeat, because I had a pet measure in year before the legislature which was left further behind than his. It didn't even get through one house. I thought it was a good bill, but others could not see its merit. I was much grieved over its death at first, but when I found so many bereaved ones was able to soothe my sorrows and rejoice over bereavement.

A paper read before the New York Historical Society recently discussed the question, "Where is Columbus' Body?" It appears that his body was buried in only four different places when the last returns came in, and if one of three spots was the Lebanon cemetery in Philadelphia, it is pretty difficult to tell where his body is now. His friends should investigate the matter, and let no guilty man escape.—Norristown Herald.

A new coal mine has been opened in Coos county. The vein is located near the summit of the coast range, and shows some five or six feet of coal, but it is in three distinct layers, separated by small seams of clay. The coal looks well, and experts who examined and tested it pronounce it much superior in quality to anything of the kind at present being mined in this county. It cokes well, and blacksmiths who have tried it say it is fully up to the requirements of their business and a big improvement on much of the imported coal which they buy at an extravagant price. It is on unsurveyed government land, and in the midst of a vast body of [illegible] 75,000,000 or [illegible] feet of white cedar timber, [illegible] feet of sugar pine, and unlimited quantities of fir or Oregon pine and other timber.

L. Higgerty	6 00	W. B. Gordon	216 00
V. Thurin	3 00	Geo. H. Himes	12 50

On motion of Crane, all bills were ordered paid, except that of the E. P. Water Co., which was referred to the committee on fire and water.

ORDINANCES.

Providing for the time and manner of improving I street from Water to Fourth. Read three times and passed. [This relates to the elevated sidewalk, and provides for its completion by the 31st of March next.]

Granting the Portland Telephone, Telegraph and Electric Light Company the right to use the streets of East Portland for the purposes of their business. Read second and third times and passed.

To amend the ordinance establishing ferry landing at the foot of I street. Read second and third times and passed. [This repeals that clause forbidding one party from using more than one landing.]

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS, ETC.

In reply to Crane, the city attorney said he was not prepared to make a report in reference to granting L. W. Shave the right to build a wharf.

By Crane—That the recorder be instructed to issue warrants for the collection of assessments for the improvement on Holladay avenue. Adopted.

Sprague complained that the two lamps on Holladay avenue were not lighted, and Cunningham moved that the marshal be instructed to see that the lamps were lighted under pain of discharge of the person whose duty it was to light them. Carried.

A discussion ensued as to who were responsible for the lighting of lamps, during which it developed that it devolved upon the committee on the health and police to look after this matter.

In reply to Crane, Striker, of the fire and water committee, said that measures had been taken for the procurement of hose.

Crane moved that the committee on fire and water be authorized to purchase two hydrants, to be approved by the chief engineer. Carried.

In reply to Sprague, Striker said that he had received one proposition to furnish hose, which was from Joe Buchtel, and that, under the provisions of the ordinance, he would be entitled to the contract, as he guaranteed to furnish hose of greater strength and durability than could be purchased elsewhere.

By Striker—That the recorder be instructed to give notice that the board of trustees propose to improve F street from the center line of I street to the south line of Holladay avenue, by grading and laying a plank roadway sixteen feet wide with sidewalks and cross walks four feet wide, and by building an elevated roadway across Sullivan's gulch, sixty feet wide, the cost of the improvement to be assessed to the adjacent property. Carried.

By Crane—That the committee on health and police be instructed to purchase [illegible] street lamps, and furnishing material [illegible] [illegible]

On motion of Sprague, adjourned.

INSTALLATION, ETC.

Hope Council No. 4, I. O. C. F., held a public installation last evening, when the following officers elect were installed: Chief councillor, Dr. J. M. Ashley; vice-councillor, John Harding; secretary, A. [illegible]; financier, J. T. Stewart; treasurer, E. D. [illegible]; prelate, Mrs. T. J. Matlock; marshal, Mr. J. M. McCoy; warden, Mrs. B. F. Ammons; guard, Mrs. E. Dunning; sentry, T. J. Matlock; examining physicians, Drs. G. C. Nottage and Mrs. Carlton. V. L. Hall succeeds to the chair of past chief councillor by rotation. Musical and literary exercises followed the installation, Prof. and I. S. Bullock contributing to the former, and Messrs. J. N. Sturm and H. D. McGuire to the latter, but lack of time prevents further particularization. After partaking of an excellent repast, an enjoyable evening was brought to a happy termination by the members and their friends indulging in a social hop.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

Special services, supplementary to the Week of Prayer, will be held at the Congregational church this week, commencing this evening. The topics are: Tuesday—"The Holy Spirit in His Relations to Christ and the Christian." Wednesday—"The Holy Spirit in His Relations to the Church." Thursday—"The Fruits of the Spirit." Friday—"Have You Received the Holy Spirit?" Meetings will begin at 7 o'clock P. M. Twenty minutes will be used in the opening, in song. Afternoon meetings, for prayer, conference and consecration, will be held at 3 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, at Mr. Plympton's residence. All are invited to come and bring their bible with them.

ANOTHER ADVENTIST REVIVAL.

One of the Adventist brothers, who held a religious revival in this city some time since, has returned here with a similar intention, and held the first of a series of meetings at Neppach's hall Sunday evening. The hall was crowded. The doctrine taught is a new departure from the orthodox creeds, and is variously spoken of by those who attended.

NOTES.

Two nozzles and 500 feet of hose will be ordered immediately for our fire department.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be presented at Neppach's hall by the Lyceum Dramatic company this evening.

A lad the [illegible] of whose family was impugned by a companion yesterday succeeded in giving the latter a [illegible] drubbing.

The meanest individual that has developed in this city for some time is he who stole two chimneys from the street lamps recently.

The telephone ordinance having passed last night, the company will commence at once to prepare for business on this side the river.

The clause of a city ordinance by which the Knott Brothers were restrained from using more than one ferry landing was rescinded last evening, so that now no legal barrier stands in the way of their enterprise.

CITY.

[illegible] Kee, a most ragged and [illegible] the Mongol race, occupied a [illegible] the prisoners' bench in the [illegible]. He sat there gazing into [illegible] chewing, what no man [illegible] even the least attention [illegible] Constable Campbell, who darted [illegible] a decapitated hen, in his ca[illegible] the capacity of a young hoodlum, [illegible] arrested, of the charge of lar[illegible]. From the testimony of [illegible] did not interest him. He had [illegible] Policeman Holt as a vagrant and [illegible] the streets at unseasonable hours. [illegible] he was called to his feet and [illegible] him. He gave one despairing [illegible] sank back in his seat. "Two [illegible] and made a clear case against [illegible] was saved if he had any [illegible] his apathy was thrown [illegible] earnest defense of himself in [illegible] English. "Yes, me hab wit[illegible] and called for Ah Fly who was [illegible] the crowd in the lobby. But [illegible] he came in among so many [illegible] when one was sent after him he [illegible] and disappeared around the [illegible] questioning elicited the follow[illegible] work on railroad, come to [illegible] saw wood here; work two [illegible] dollar two bit. No work more, [illegible] money play China pool; no money [illegible] one, two, tree time; please[illegible] to me. No got friends." And [illegible] oblivious to everything and would [illegible] judge believed the case of vag[illegible] and sent him to the county jail.

[illegible] THE DAYS OF GOLD.—The men [illegible] the hills and gulches of California [illegible] of '49 are growing scarce, but [illegible] is still found. Last evening one [illegible] pioneers and solid business men, [illegible] article in Sunday's OREGONIAN, en[illegible] the Mines," in which was re[illegible] presents of a mining camp presented [illegible] at Christmas, said: "It is [illegible] who read that story will hardly [illegible] nothing uncommon for those [illegible] the mines of California in '51, when [illegible]. In '51 I had a claim in Grinding [illegible] $800 per day for three months, [illegible] then came down to $300 per day [illegible] a butcher store and blacksmith [illegible] of '51 a party of miners about [illegible] while on their way from Ameri[illegible] or Placerville, El Dorado [illegible] through Smith's camp saw some [illegible] waving from a pole used as a [illegible] called at the cabin and asked to [illegible] lady to whom the garments be[illegible] looking German woman fresh [illegible] stepped to the door and the [illegible] took a good look at the first woman [illegible] for nearly a long day. One of the [illegible] buckskin purse well filled [illegible] and asking her to hold out her [illegible] a shower of the glittering gold [illegible] followed in turn by each of the [illegible] contributions amounted to about [illegible] necessary to place a support [illegible]. Among Mr. Abbey's famous at[illegible] had one, not even Mrs. Langtry, [illegible] an $800 benefit."

[illegible] JAIL.—The county jail is over[illegible] some 65 persons incarcerated [illegible]. A glance through the corridors [illegible] not pleasing. The prisoners are of [illegible] little chicken-stealing hoodlum [illegible] nationalities. When an OREGO[illegible] there yesterday, a full-blooded [illegible] was raising a tremendous row [illegible] by the boys in the cor[illegible] went in to settle this diffi[illegible] the other corridor were swarm[illegible] like monkeys in a cage to see [illegible]. In one corridor were four In[illegible] murder, squatting stolidly on the [illegible] hair hanging down over the gaudy [illegible] blankets in which they were wrapped. [illegible] of Chinamen paced uneasily up and [illegible] of so many boys locked up with [illegible] was a painful one, especially as the [illegible] that they gave him more trouble, and [illegible] reckless than the grown up prison[illegible] to be no use in talking or writ[illegible] but if any person wishes to [illegible] the necessity for such an in[illegible] pay a visit to the county jail. An[illegible] fratricide, was curled up in his [illegible] complaining the past few days. [illegible] was receiving a visit from his [illegible] who spends a considerable time each [illegible] through the grated door of his [illegible] who eloped with another man's wife, [illegible] his cell impatiently. A number of sail[illegible] held as witnesses, were sitting [illegible] indifference. Taken altogether, [illegible] jail is not a pleasant place to spend a [illegible]

[illegible] THE OTHER LEFT.—The cases of Ho [illegible] and the girl, Gow Chi, the parties [illegible] steamship Hook, by habeas corpus were [illegible] Judge Deady yesterday. In the case [illegible] it was decided that it was not necessary [illegible] or any one coming here from China [illegible] certificate, and so long as he was able to [illegible] was not a laborer, he was entitled to [illegible] King was allowed to stay. The case of [illegible] brought into court by Judge Woodward [illegible] a number of Chinese merchants, [illegible] have the matter settled as to [illegible] woman falls within the meaning [illegible] laborer," as used in the restriction [illegible] of the question is a matter of [illegible] to the Chinese residents here some [illegible] are prevented from doing so by the [illegible] no decision was arrived at in [illegible] cut short by the girl saying that [illegible] go to Hong Kong. This proposition [illegible] the counsel and the court, and [illegible] on board the steamer.

[illegible] MERCHANT ARRESTED.—Yesterday Chief [illegible] received a dispatch from Sheriff [illegible] Columbia county, W. T., directing him to [illegible] Murphy, of Dayton, who would arrive [illegible] O. R. & N. Co.'s road last evening. De[illegible] & Barry found Murphy and his wife [illegible] St. Charles and arrested him and [illegible] police station. He was on the rep[illegible] a prominent business man here at[illegible] to his hotel to spend the night in [illegible] officer. It is not known what the [illegible] Murphy is but Sheriff Hoster will be [illegible] explain. Murphy came from Red [illegible] to Dayton about two months ago and [illegible] store which he has been running ever [illegible] that he has a store at Red Bluff and [illegible] there wrote to him that as money had [illegible] New Years as it should, there was a [illegible] of the concern being attached and that [illegible] down there to arrange matters. It is [illegible] Murphy's creditors at Dayton when he [illegible] he was absconding and caused his ar[illegible]

[illegible] SHATTERED.—The typographical union [illegible] in this city did a very praiseworthy [illegible] admitting to equal membership the female [illegible] in the different offices, who by their [illegible] proven themselves competent in every [illegible]. But the boys little knew or even sus[illegible] to this action which has just been [illegible] through the gossiping of the girls. [illegible] asked her about the new hon[illegible] a member of a secret society. "O, it's [illegible] replied, "but I don't think as much of [illegible]. We girls talked the matter over [illegible] compelled to keep in the back[illegible] meetings were called to order, we [illegible] much about constitutions and by-laws, [illegible] rules of procedure, and sergeants [illegible] lots of other things, but when we got [illegible] just squabbled, and got mad, and [illegible] at once just as bad as the women do. [illegible] more" and [illegible] it her stick at the rate of 2000 ems [illegible] was her indignation.

[illegible] TO PROBATE.—The will of the late Jas. [illegible] admitted to probate in the county [illegible]. The document is dated June 6, [illegible] providing for the payment of his [illegible] funeral expenses, and the giving [illegible] his children, the remainder of his [illegible] real and personal, is given to his [illegible] E. Holman, in fee simple absolutely to [illegible] disposed of as she may [illegible] desire. He appoints Judge E. C. [illegible] his son Fred V. Holman as executors. [illegible] being so situated that he cannot [illegible] trust, the county court has appoint[illegible] Holman sole executor. The property in [illegible] mainly of a part of lot 3, block 78, [illegible] situated at the foot of Wash[illegible] valued at $17,000, forming part of [illegible]. The bulk of the property is a trusted [illegible] W. T.

[illegible] OTHER.—The hullabaloo raised by an [illegible] of this city about the "stealing" [illegible] issue of Saturday morning by an [illegible] carrier boy is ridiculous. The boy [illegible] the copy as all, nor did he attempt to [illegible]. With a boy's curiosity he picked up the [illegible] look at it—it was the first copy he had [illegible] a moment intending to carry it away. [illegible] the case to the court he was dis[illegible] a reprimand, which was deserved, of [illegible] had no right to touch it, or any [illegible] the charge of attempting to [illegible] absurd that no one appeared in [illegible]. The insinuation that the boy [illegible] employed to "steal" copies of the [illegible] there is an organized effort of this [illegible] concern, could emanate only from a [illegible]

[illegible] SUFFERERS.—From all parts of [illegible] have come reports of large sums [illegible] by the recent floods in Ger[illegible] has been raised among [illegible] business men in this commu[illegible] desired to send still more. ON THE ANXIOUS BENCH.—The office of U. S. District Attorney Watson was thronged yesterday afternoon with a number of the leading Chinese merchants of this city, who were anxiously waiting for Judge Deady's decision in regard to the actor, Ho King. The cause of all this worry, a rather effeminate specimen of the Celestial race, was striding around the room apparently very anxious as to whether he was to be allowed to stay here and play leading lady at the Chinese theater or be forced to continue his journey to Honolulu. The crowd of plump, well fed Chinese lounging around the room would have afforded an artist a subject for a new departure in a painting of "Waiting for the Verdict."

NONSUITED.—The case of Jacob Muller vs. Joseph Buchtel, ex-sheriff of this county, to recover damages for the releasing of property seized by the sheriff on execution, was tried in the county court yesterday before Judge Stearns and a jury. It appears that the property seized belonged to two parties, and the sheriff required the plaintiff to give a bond to indemnify him in the seizure, which he failed to do, and it was accordingly released. A motion for a nonsuit and instructing the jury to that effect was allowed by Judge Stearns. A motion by plaintiff's counsel for dismissal without prejudice was overruled.

RESTING ON THEIR ARMS.—There appears to be a lull in the ferry war which lately was so fiercely waged and with such varying success. What with injunctions and counter injunctions the parties to the suits appear to be so hampered and bound that neither can make a move and none of the owners are in possession or enjoyment of the property. It is probable that Judge Stott will soon sever the Gordian knot which restrains them, and then the cry of "to arms" will be heard, and the opposing forces will rush to the conflict with renewed energy.

NEW ORDER.—Liberty Council No. 1 of this state was organized last Sunday evening at Monparell hall with 130 organizing members. O. Beal, the originator and founder of this society, bases it on patriotism and the equity of nature, and will organize it throughout the state. The officers are: President, O. Beal; vice president, Mrs. Kitterman; governor, Isaac Hiatt; lieutenant governor, Mrs. Olson; secretary, O. P. Chilstrong; treasurer, S. B. Ives; conductors, Alex. Kitterman and Mrs. Achilles; sentinels, Thos. Hughes and Mrs. Clark.

POULTRY THIEVES SENTENCED.—Martin Smalldon, Tony Gilliam, Michael McLaughlin and Eugene Oliver, arrested for stealing ducks and chickens, were yesterday arraigned in the police court and pleaded guilty in a chorus. Some of these boys are old offenders, but this is McLaughlin's first appearance in the police court. The gang of young poultry thieves are now well broken up, and chickens may safely roost low, at least for a few weeks. Smalldon was sentenced to 40 days in the county jail, Gilliam got 30 days, Oliver 90, and McLaughlin 12.

PRISONER ESCAPED.—Some time since one Jim Lacy stole a wagon at Walla Walla, and starting out on a foraging expedition captured a hot stove at one ranch and a man's wife at another, and had succeeded in getting "thirty miles away" before he was overtaken by justice—John Justice, marshal of Walla Walla's fair city. Lacy was sent to the territorial penitentiary at Seatco for four years. A few days since he made his escape, and now a reward of $50 is offered for his capture. While he is at large no stove is safe.

REVERSING CHANNELS OF TRADE.—Yesterday a well known mill owner of Umatilla county applied to the O. R. & N. Co. for rates on wheat from Portland to Umatilla, saying that the supply of grain in his section beyond that required for seeding was exhausted. On account of increased immigration, the requirements of new ground for seeding, the consumption by railroad hands and new settlers who are not yet producers, it is not unlikely that the Willamette valley surplus will have to be drawn on before next harvest.

ALL ABOUT A STAKE.—Eli Morrill, the truckman, was tried yesterday before Justice Bullock, of East Portland, on the charge of larceny of a truck stake, preferred by the driver of one of Mr. Neppach's trucks. Morrill was promptly acquitted, the evidence showing that he had simply reclaimed property which he believed to be his. After the trial, he and Mr. Neppach arbitrated the question of the ownership of the stake, which was decided in Mr. Morrill's favor.

AMICABLY ARRANGED.—Sheriff Wm. Martin, of Umatilla county, who was arrested by U. S. Marshal Kearney on a charge of obstructing and interfering with the process of the U. S. courts, was allowed to return home yesterday on his own recognizance. The adjustment of the little discrepancy between the United States and state authorities as to the prior right to try the Indian murderers brought down by Marshal Kearney has been postponed till the 29th inst.

WEDDING.—Last night Mr. Alfred E. Kelly, of San Francisco, was married to Miss Fannie Raleigh. The ceremony took place at the cathedral, corner of Third and Stark streets, which was crowded with friends of the contracting parties. The attendants were Miss Sara Keely, sister of the groom, with Mr. John Sheehy and Miss Belle Malarkey with Mr. Milton Coey. A family reception was held at the residence of Mr. John B. Raleigh.

NEW DEPARTURE.—Mrs. E. L. Weeks has been appointed agent for Wells, Fargo & Co. at Sand Point, Idaho. Eugene Shelby, route agent of the express company, states that this is the first lady agent appointed by the company in the northwest. Sand Point has the reputation of being a very tough place, and it may be that the men were afraid to accept the position of agent.

SNOW.—There was a light fall of snow in the city yesterday morning, but it soon disappeared and the day was cold with occasional drizzling showers. Wood wagons which came in from the hills west of the city were covered to the depth of an inch. The down river boat came through light snow fall from Astoria to St. Helens. At Walla Walla four inches fell.

PORTLAND TO KALAMA.—Proposals for grading and bridging the Northern Pacific extension from Portland to Kalama are asked for by the supervising engineer, H. Thielsen, and will be received until the 27th inst. Maps and profiles are to be seen in the engineer's office.

MURDER CONFESSED.

Owensby Says that He Killed Cummins at New York Bar, and Implicates Others.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DAYTON, W. T., Jan. 15.—The jury in the Owensby case, after twenty-four hours' deliberation, failed to agree, being seven for conviction. While the jury were out and before they were discharged, Owensby confessed that he and J. M. McPherson, Ezra Snodderly and J. Porter, of Pomeroy, committed the deed; that he fired the first three shots, and that McPherson and Snodderly did the balance. McPherson, he said, cut Cummins' throat. Porter seems to have been cognizant of the affair, but was not present. The confession was made in the presence of two witnesses and sworn to by the prisoner. Warrants were immediately issued for the arrest of the three men implicated by Owensby. Two of them were witnesses in his defense. They are probably arrested by this time.

Their Arrest.

POMEROY, W. T., Jan. 15.—Johnson Porter, of the firm of Mulkey Bros. & Porter, hardware merchants of this place, J. T. McPherson and Ezra Snodderly, farmers, were arrested last night upon the confession of Owenby as accomplices in the murder of E. H. Cummins, the O. R. & N. Co.'s agent at New York bar last July. They will be taken to Dayton to-day for trial.

[Officers of the O. R. & N. Co. in this city who were interviewed yesterday regard the confession as decidedly "fishy." Cummins was robbed of about $700, and Owenby was known to have had $500 immediately after the murder. If those men were accessories, they allowed Owenby too large a share of the swag.]

DEATH AT SEA.

Isaac Berman, the well known merchant, died Saturday aboard the steamer State of California, as she was passing out of the Golden Gate to sea. He had been hopelessly ill of consumption for some time, and expressed the wish to die in Portland and be buried by the side of the late Mrs. Bachman, his wife's mother. He was carried to the steamer on a stretcher, half an hour before she started. The body was packed in ice and brought to this city, reaching here at half-past eleven last night. On account of the prostration of the line to Astoria, his relatives and friends were not advised of the death, and the sad news was conveyed to them only after the steamer landed. His age was forty-six years.

PERSONAL.

Capt. Geo. Flavel of Astoria, is at the Clarendon.

John Cran leaves on the steamer to-night for New York.

Miss Nellie Galbraith, of Walla Walla, is stopping in the city for the purpose of attending school.

Col. Frank J. Parker, editor of the Walla Walla Statesman, is in the city and leaves for home this afternoon.

Frank T. Dodge, superintendent of the river division of the O. R. & N. Co., has gone to Victoria on official business.

Dr. H. E. Jones, who is attending R. Habersham, states that his sickness is a genuine case of typhoid fever. He has been very sick, but symptoms are favorable and his early recovery is confidently expected.

BRIEF MENTION.

The Beebe trial will be resumed this morning.

The new city dredge was towed down to Swan island yesterday.

The Northern Pacific commissioners left yesterday for a visit of pleasure to Puget Sound.

City Treasurer McKrachey has collected for licenses so far this month a trifle over $7000.

The case of Capt. Sewall, charged with cruelty to sailors, comes up in the United States court to-day.

Ed. Knox, who was mentioned as being one of a party of Sunday morning hoodlums, called at this office to say that he was not with the gang.

A SUGAR REFINERY

TO BE ESTABLISHED IN PORTLAND BY SPRECKELS.

Claus Spreckels, Jr., now in the City Looking over the Situation—He Talks Freely to an Oregonian Reporter.

Mr. C. A. Spreckels, son of Mr. Claus Spreckels, the distinguished sugar importer and refiner of San Francisco, arrived in the city by the State last night and is stopping at the Holton House. An OREGONIAN reporter calling upon Spreckles on his arrival late last night, informed him of the talk about the establishment of a sugar refinery in Portland, for several weeks current, and asked if his visit had any relation to such an enterprise. Mr. Spreckels replied that he was merely taking a pleasure jaunt with a party of friends, but that at the same time was looking about as to the advisability of at some future day establishing a refinery at Portland. "I do not think," he said, "that a refinery at the present time would pay. My father has had an eye on Portland for several years, and as soon as he thinks that the business will warrant it, he will at once establish himself in Portland. I do not think it will be many years either—perhaps inside of three years—till he will set up an establishment here. At the present time sugar can be refined in San Francisco and shipped to Portland much cheaper than it could be refined here, for the reason that we refine in very large quantities and the cost per unit is always less in proportion to the amount refined."

"It is reported," said THE OREGONIAN man, "that your new refinery has been fitted up with machinery of great capacity, and that the machinery of the old establishment is now on your hands, and that you might bring it to Portland. How about that?"

Mr. Spreckels replied: "I think the greater portion of the old establishment could be used in such a refinery. Much of it, however, is out of date. In fitting up our new establishment we have put in all the latest improvements, and will, of course, in the event of coming to Portland, do the same here. That part of the old machinery still serviceable was too small for the great establishment at San Francisco, but would perhaps come in well in a smaller establishment at Portland. The capacity of the new works is about 200 tons per day. The capacity of the old works—the works now in operation—is about 250 tons per day. We expect to have the new establishment in operation in about two months."

"When the Northern Pacific is finished will you be able to make terms with it as with the Central Pacific, so as to control the trade of its traffic field against eastern competition?" asked the reporter.

"I know of no arrangements," replied Mr. Spreckels, "such as you refer to. It has been common talk, I know, but the idea of such a small interest as sugar refining on this coast being able to subsidize two or three trans-continental railways (I quote the gossip) is preposterous. Sugar carriage has always been two cents per pound across the continent until about three years ago, when it was reduced to one cent, in the interest of California jobbers. They failed in the business competition with us at this reduced rate, while the railroad company lost money by it through loss of tariff on the British sugar, which it carried through in bond for British Columbia. Their loss of one cent per pound on this foreign sugar freight amounted to about $50,000 per year. (I speak in round numbers,) while there was absolutely no compensation in sugar freights for the coast trade, for none was brought across. To protect themselves they put up the figures to the old rate, and out of this move, with which our house had nothing to do, has grown the talk to which your question raises. As to the Northern Pacific, they are now carrying sugar for us into Montana and southern Idaho. We shall have no other relations with them than as producers on the one hand and carriers on the other."

"It is reported," said the reporter, "that your father has gone east in the effort to secure extension of the reciprocity treaty. What of it?"

Answer—I doubt very much whether he will visit Washington at all. He has gone to New York on business in connection with our new refinery and has no interest in the extension or abrogation of the treaty.

Question—Do you expect to control the trade of Oregon, Washington Idaho and Montana when the Northern Pacific is completed against eastern competition?

A—We do. We expect to supply from our establishment at San Francisco and from the proposed works at Portland all that region west of the Mississippi river.

Q—Various reports are in circulation as to your control of the island sugar crop. Will you give me the facts?

A—It is true that we do control the entire island crop, which amounts to sixty-five thousand tons per year, by means of purchase thereof; which control may be had by anyone who is willing to pay as high a price as we do for the same. Eastern refiners have at various times sent their agents there for the purpose of buying the crops; but as they were not willing to match our offers, they could not succeed. That's all there is in the matter.

Q—Who brought the thousand tons of Manila sugar which arrived in San Francisco last week, and how were they able to do it in competition with island sugars which come free?

A—"We brought the Manila sugar and can always bring Manila sugar in competition with the island sugar for the reason that we pay the Hawaiian planters the same price as a like grade of Manila sugar costs laid down in the port of San Francisco duty paid. We make a difference in the purchase which covers the duty on the Manila sugar. We brought the Manila because the island supply was not sufficient for our uses. By this you will see that as refiners we are not benefited in the least by the reciprocity treaty, as the planter and not the refiner receives the benefit of the amount of duty waived."

Ques.—What would be the advantage to Portland of such a refinery as you will establish here?

Ans.—In our San Francisco refinery we employ directly over three hundred men, and indirectly about seven times that number. The consumption of fuel and of general supplies, makes the works an extensive market of itself. In Portland our establishment will be smaller, but it would be safe to calculate that it will give employment to at least a thousand men, about one hundred and twenty of whom would be at skilled labor rates.

Mr. Spreckels will remain to-day in Portland and will go to-morrow to Seattle. He will return to Portland on Friday, and take the "State" Friday night for home.

YAQUINA BAY NOTES.

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

NEWPORT, Jan. 9, 1883.

The weather here is very fine; warm and balmy like spring.

The Oysette saw mills have shut down until they can get a supply of logs.

Where is the doctor that is looking for a good healthy location. Let him come here.

Jas. Brassfield's new store is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy next week.

The mails have not got the crook out of them yet. They are now carried from Elk City in a small boat.

The city of Newport is to have a bulkhead all along her front. This is a good improvement, and will make her loom up in good style.

Diphtheria has made its appearance on the bay. Several of Hon. Allen Parker's family are afflicted with it, but no deaths have occurred yet.

Miss Morrison attended the New Year's ball at Elk City, was taken ill next day, and died yesterday. She leaves an afflicted family and many friends to mourn her loss.

Mr. J. B. Polhemus has returned and resumed charge of the government works. He had a very rough trip out, having to ford many of the streams where the bridges had been carried away by high water.

The steamer Ona will sail for Portland to-day. The flour brought by her and the Kate and Anna is all consumed and there is not a sack to be bought on the bay. The Ona will return as soon as she can make the trip.

It is reported here to-day that the O. P. R. R. have suspended operations on the tunnels and grades, retaining only the cribbers. Whether this is only temporary or not remains to be seen. The great question here is, "What are the future prospects of Yaquina bay if no railroad is put through?"

THE COURTS.

A NECKTIE SOCIAL.

A Pleasant Gathering at Good Templars' Hall Last Night—Trials and Tribulations of Our New Young Man.

It was not one of those parties of which Colorado papers delight to detail the particulars, where the above named article is made of hemp, the knot of the tie is peculiar and one end is fastened to the limb of a tree, but just a simple, plain, delightful and pleasant social gathering of ladies and gentlemen, in which ordinary neckties played a part that is hereinafter detailed.

There were literary and musical exercises all under the auspices of Prohibition lodge, I. O. G. T., and held at their hall, No. 107 First street, over Prentice's music store. The programme rendered was as follows: Music by Miss Rindlaub; remarks by Mrs. A. S. Duniway; song by Miss Dobson; recitation by Miss Della McBride; music by Miss Olarno; essay by Miss Annie Abbott; song by the Misses Emma and Annie Russ; instrumental music by Miss Ida Russ; reading by Miss Belle McBride; music by Miss Carrie Rindlaub. After the regular programme there were some facetious remarks by Mr. Lehbart and some instrumental music by volunteers, both ladies and gentlemen.

Refreshments were served in an adjoining room and the remainder of the evening was passed in enjoyable social intercourse. The attendance was very large, and the affair was in every way a success.

Our new young man was detailed to write up the above and attended in full evening dress, but the experience through which he passed rendered him incapable of collecting his fleeting thoughts. Upon being ushered into the room he was surrounded by a bevy of beauties, around the soft, white throat of each of whom was a charming necktie differing from all others in material and design. The ladies conducted the willing reporter to a place where mates of all the ties worn by the fair sex were lying and besought him to buy. Thinking to get a corner on the market, he invested liberally, but it was no use. The supply was unlimited. The poor fellow then discovered for the first time that each tie entitled him to the companionship of a certain lady for the remainder of the evening. When six or seven presented their claims upon him he realized that he could never see them all home that night, and with the neckties streaming in every direction from coat sleeve and button holes he made one desperate effort and fled the hall.

The Vaudiller was also there, and remarked as he was led up to the assortment, "I don't want anything flashy, just a plain red and yaller."

Ten per cent entrance to all the above races unless otherwise specified.

THE ASSESSMENT LAW.

EAST PORTLAND, Jan. 15.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In Senator Davenport's first letter he declared that the "assessor of Multnomah would look in vain for legal instructions to assess his county the coming year." I provoked him someway in my reply, and now he reiterates this statement and goes still further and declares in effect that there is no law authorizing assessments in any county in 1883. I am almost afraid to provoke him further for fear he will declare that the state constitution makes no provision for raising revenue.

But for fear of the dire calamity which would befall our state if our sources of revenue should be cut off, I must try and produce the legal authority" and "name the section, title, page, etc." Sec. 18, chap. 41, page 645, "There shall be elected at a general election by the qualified electors of each county a county treasurer, county assessor, etc., who shall hold their offices for the term of two years," etc.

Sec. 1 of act of Oct. 29, 1870, "Assessors shall enter upon their offices on the first day of March next after the general election at which they were chosen and shall serve two years," etc.

Sec. 16, chap. 57, title 2, page 751, "The assessor after qualifying as prescribed by law shall immediately procure from the county clerk a blank assessment roll and forthwith proceed and assess all taxable property within his county, etc.

Sec. 26, chap. 57, page 754, it shall be the duty of the county assessors in this state when making their assessments for each year, &c. The above references cover all the grounds in dispute. The senator says in effect there is no law for making assessments in 1883. Let us see under the law referred to above: County assessors were elected in June, 1882, for two years, commencing March 1, 1883, at which date they will proceed and assess all taxable property in their counties and file their assessment rolls on the first Monday in September, 1883, and proceed under the law each year until their successors are elected and qualified. W. L. H. has published a statement of the case which will satisfy all reasonable men of the sufficiency of existing law for making assessments, and as to the main issue between the senator and myself, the merits of the precincts assessors bill, I will admit that it was a first rate bill of the kind, and will be generous enough to let him have the last say. I know how he feels over its defeat, because I had a pet measure myself before the legislature which was left farther behind than his. It didn't even get through one house. I thought it was a good bill, but others could not see its merit. I was much grieved over its death at first, but when I found so many bereaved ones I was able to soothe my sorrows and rejoice over human misery.

A paper read before the New York Historical Society recently discussed the question, "Where is Columbus' Body?" It appears that his body was buried in only four different places when the last returns came in, and if one of these spots was the Lebanon cemetery in Philadelphia, it is pretty difficult to tell where his body is now. His friends should investigate the matter, and let no guilty man escape.—Norristown Herald.

A new coal mine has been opened in Coos county. The vein is located near the summit of the coast range, and shows some five or six feet of coal, but it is in five distinct layers, separated by small seams of clay. The coal looks well, and experts who examined and tested it pronounce it much superior in quality to anything of the kind at present being mined in this county. It cokes well and blacksmiths who have tried it say it is fully up to the requirements of their business and a big improvement on much of the imported coal which they buy at an extravagant price. It is an unsurveyed government land and in the midst of a vast body of 50,000,000 or 60,000,000 feet of white cedar timber, 25,000,000 or 30,000,000 feet of sugar pine, and unlimited quantities of fir or Oregon pine and other timber.

THE EAST SIDE.

Board of Trustees.

The board of trustees met in regular session last evening, a full board being present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

PETITIONS.

From the trustees of the Odd Fellows hall, asking that a lamp and post be erected at the southeast corner of J and Tenth streets. Crane moved to grant, and Sliker amend by increasing the number to four, the additional three to be placed at the corners of J and Water, J and Third, and G and Fourth streets. The amendment carried.

From T. R. Turnbull, asking an extension of ninety days in which to complete the improvement on Holladay avenue, owing to his inability to procure lumber. On motion of Sliker, granted.

From E. L. Thorp asking to be reimbursed in the sum of $3 50, the amount of a tax title purchased by him to property stated to be in Holladay's addition, and assessed in the name of E. C. Bronaugh, but which could not be found. A warrant was ordered drawn for the amount asked.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

From the city surveyor and street commissioner, certifying to the amount of work completed on Holladay avenue and C street improvements by T. R. Turnbull. On motion of Crane, accepted.

From the city surveyor, reporting that he had made the necessary surveys, plans and specifications for the proposed improvements of Fifth street from I to L, and had filed them with the recorder. On motion of Sliker, referred to the committee on streets for their recommendation.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Sliker, from the committee on accounts, to whom had been referred bills of ex-City Surveyor W. B. Marye and his assistants, L. Creitz and Jos. Sanders, reported that in Marye's bill, items to the amount of $47 50 appeared for work never performed, and recommended the deduction of that sum. In the case of Sanders and Creitz, the former of whom had two days' work charged and the latter three, for cutting stakes, the committee recommended that each be cut down to one day. On motion of Crane, the report was adopted and warrants ordered drawn for the claims with the exceptions stated.

Sliker from the committee on fire and water, reported that a two-wheeled hose cart, with a carrying capacity of 900 feet of hose, could be purchased from Multnomah Co. No. 2, of Portland, for the sum of $275. In the opinion of the committee it was in good condition, and they recommended the purchase. On motion of Sprague, the committee were authorized to purchase the same.

CLAIMS.

The following bills against the city were read:

J. G. Stewart	$75 00	Jas Berger	$2 00
Geo. Linville	50 00	W. Oliver	2 00
S. R. Harrington	33 33	J. J. Hadderly	7 75
Thos. Hawks	50 00	OREGONIAN	2 60

Walsh Jones	66 65	S. Garland	23 75
E. P. Water Co	96 75	Jas. Mahood	24 50
Welch Bros	6 75	J. Sanders	1 00
Geo. Linville	14 25	H. LePledge	1 50
H. A. Hogue	65 35	L. Creitz	3 50
Thompson, DeHart		Vindicator	18 25
& Co	6 00	Smith & Sturm	376 90
M. Cougill	5 00	J. Jerolaman	2 50
P. Haggerty	6 00	W. B. Gordon	206 00
V. Thurm	2 00	Geo. H. Himes	17 50

On motion of Crane, all bills were ordered paid, except that of the E. P. Water Co., which was referred to the committee on fire and water.

ORDINANCES.

Providing for the time and manner of improving L street from Water to Fourth. Read three times and passed. (This relates to the elevated sidewalk, and provides for its completion by the 31st of March next.)

Granting the Portland Telephone, Telegraph and Electric Light Company the right to use the streets of East Portland for the purposes of their business. Read second and third times and passed.

To amend the ordinance establishing ferry landing at the foot of U street. Read second and third times and passed. (This repeals that clause forbidding one party from using more than one landing.)

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS, ETC.

In reply to Crane, the city attorney said he was not prepared to make a report in reference to granting G. W. Shaver the right to build a wharf.

By Crane—That the recorder be instructed to issue warrants for the collection of assessments for the improvement on Holladay avenue. Adopted.

Sprague complained that the two lamps on Holladay avenue were not lighted and Cunningham moved that the marshal be instructed to see that the lamps were lighted under pain of discharge of the person whose duty it was to light them. Carried.

A discussion ensued as to who were responsible for the lighting of lamps, during which it developed that it devolved upon the committee on the health and police to look after the matter.

In reply to Crane, Sliker, of the fire and water committee, said that measures had been taken for the procurement of hose.

Crane then moved that the committee on fire and water be authorized to purchase two nozzles, to be approved by the chief engineer. Carried.

In reply to Sprague, Sliker said that he had received one proposition to furnish hose, which was from Jos. Buchtel, and that, under the provisions of the ordinance, he would be entitled to the contract, as he guaranteed to furnish hose of greater strength and durability than could be purchased elsewhere.

By Sliker.—That the recorder be instructed to give notice that the board of trustees propose to improve Fifth street from the center line of I street to the south line of Holladay avenue, by grading and laying a plank roadway sixteen feet wide with side and cross walks four feet wide, and by building an elevated roadway across Sullivan's gulch, sixty feet wide, the cost of the improvement to be assessed to the adjacent property. Carried.

By Crane.—That the committee on health and police be instructed to entertain bids for lighting street lamps, and furnishing material therefor, for one year.

On motion of Sprague, adjourned.

INSTALLATION, ETC.

Home Council, No. 4, I. O. C. F., held a public installation last evening, when the following officers elect were installed: Chief councilor, Dr. J. M. McCoy; vice-councilor, John Sype; secretary, A. May; financier, J. T. Stewart; treasurer, E. D. Thorne; prelate, Mrs. T. J. Matlock; marshal, Dr. J. M. McCoy; warden, Mrs. B. F. Ananus; guard, Mrs. E. Dunning; sentry, T. J. Matlock; examining physicians, Drs. G. E. Nottage and Mrs. Charlton. W. B. Hall succeeds to the chair of past-chief councilor by rotation. Musical and literary exercises followed the installation, Prof. and S. Bullock contributing to the former, and Messrs. I. N. Sturm and H. D. McGuire to the latter, but lack of time prevents further particularization. After partaking of an excellent repast, an enjoyable evening was brought to a happy termination by the members and their friends indulging in a social hop.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

Special services, supplementary to the Week of Prayer, will be held at the Congregational church this week, commencing this evening. The topics are: Tuesday—"The Holy Spirit in His Relations to Christ and the Christians." Wednesday—"The Holy Spirit in His Relations to the Church." Thursday—"The Fruits of the Spirit." Friday—"Have You Received the Holy Spirit?" Meetings will begin at 7 o'clock P. M. Twenty minutes will be used in the opening, in song. Afternoon meetings, for prayer, conference and consecration, will be held at 3 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, at Mr. Plympton's residence. All are invited to come and bring their bible with them.

ANOTHER ASHCRAFT REVIVAL.

One of the Ashcraft brothers, who held a religious revival in this city some time since, has returned here with a similar intention, and held the first of a series of meetings at Neppach's hall Sunday evening. The hall was crowded. The doctrine taught is a new departure from the orthodox creeds, and is variously spoken of by those who attended.

NOTES.

Two nozzles and 500 feet of hose will be ordered immediately for our fire department.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be presented at Neppach's hall by the Jay Rial company this evening.

A lad the honor of whose family was impugned by a companion yesterday succeeded in giving the latter a merited drubbing.

The meanest individual that has developed in this city for some time is he who stole two chimneys from the street lamps recently.

The telephone ordinance having passed last night, the company will commence at once to prepare for business on this side the river.

The clause of a city ordinance by which the Knott Brothers were restrained from using more than one ferry landing was rescinded last evening, so that now no legal barriers stand in the way of their enterprise.

LEWIS CRUFF.

BY AN OLD TAR.

Although too much credit cannot be lavished upon those revolutionary nobles, who have [illegible] passed from our midst, yet with [illegible] to their memory, allow me to [illegible] the valiant deeds of a common jack tar, who has passed away unhonored.

Lewis Cruff, of Marblehead, Mass., whose death was occasioned by the upsetting of a boat in the year 1816, was a thoroughbred seaman, a true-hearted sailor; no better man ever trod the planks of a ship's deck. He was an [illegible] seaman, ever ready and willing to perform his duties, no matter how severe or what the craft he sailed in, even from the largest war-ship down to a fishing-smack, he was able to do his duty.

Lewis was one of those daring adventurers who composed that boat's crew at Tripoli, under the command of the gallant Decatur, when they boarded and destroyed the American frigate Philadelphia, which had been captured while ashore, previous to their setting [illegible].

[illegible] war with Great Britain, in 1812, we find our hero on board of the privateer Alexander, closely engaged with a strongly-armed British merchantman, richly laden with dry goods. In the midst of the engagement, when the battle was raging the fiercest, and the chances looking the thickest, we find the undaunted Lewis stationed at a gun, coolly surveying the scene, now with his hand on the breech, patting the war-dog with the simple fondness of a child; then saying, as the match was applied and the gun fired, "Now talk to her, [illegible] father," as soon as the smoke cleared away [illegible] to see if his shot had taken effect. He had the satisfaction of seeing the [illegible] surrender, but the chief not being immediately taken possession of, escaped in the darkness of the night, and that too for want of vigilance on the part of the officer who was stationed on the look-out; in consequence of which they lost their prize. The escape of so valuable a ship, after so much hard fighting, did not satisfy the stomachs of the privateersmen. Lewis among the number, not expecting to be treated with such unpalatable food, swore emphatically, by the knot of a hard-pine plank, that he should quit the company, never again to sail with an officer whose cowardice made him tremble at his own shadow; but he should go and join Uncle Sam, where fighting was to be done.

The next place in which we find Lewis is on board the frigate United States, commanded by Stephen Decatur. Lewis was in the battle when the Macedonian surrendered, and behaved most courageously. There were no other Marbleheaders there who shared the honors of that glorious day which silenced the war dogs of Johnny Bull.

Lewis was the favorite of all on board and no matter how high or low their station, he always addressed them by their Christian names. On one occasion, when the battle was raging fiercely between the contending vessels, Lewis being stationed at a gun on the quarter deck, called the Black Vomit, of which he had the care, said in his own familiar manner:

"Now, Black Vomit, puke it up."

In a moment more they discovered that the Macedonian's mizzenmast had been shot away. Lewis, perceiving what had been done, slapped Decatur on the shoulder, saying:

"Now, Stephen, we have made a brig of her."

The response which came from the commodore was:

"Aim a little more at the yellow streak, my object is to get the vessel into port."

Soon after this the papers had the pleasure of announcing the arrival of the frigate United States, with her prize, at Norfolk.

Again we find Lewis ashore at liberty in the city of Washington, but attached to the little Adams frigate. When he came on board, whom should he encounter but the sailing master, who had joined the ship while Lewis was on shore. Lewis, not liking this officer's appearance, said in a free manner:

"Jack of Clubs, where did you come from? I never had the misfortune of seeing you before."

This abrupt remark, which Lewis uttered with composure, offended and wounded the pride of the arrogant officer, and he was so wrought upon that he immediately ordered Lewis in irons, notwithstanding the remonstrances against it of other officers, who were more familiar with Lewis' ways.

"I'll teach the rascal better manners," said the sailing master, "before he's much older."

Soon after this Captain Morris, in company with Commodore Decatur, came on board, and, learning about the difficulty between Lewis and the sailing master, Captain Morris ordered Lewis' release.

Lewis, being freed from the shackles which manacled him, was asked by Decatur what he had been doing.

"I will tell you, Stephen," said Lewis. "I came on board this morning I found that dandy officer strutting fore and aft the deck, under a heavy press of sail. Not liking his looks, I called him Jack of Clubs, which so offended him that he ordered the ruffles on my wrists. They don't suit me, Stephen, and it's the first time in my life I was compelled to wear bracelets. I don't like the trinkets. I hate to be decorated with such ornaments, neither do I wish to sail, Stephen, in the same ship with that Jack of Clubs. I will cut the [illegible] of his acquaintance, and part with him forever. I had rather founder than be again compelled to yaw off into the gulf-stream of indignation."

After Lewis' separation from the Jack of Clubs, we find our hero coxswain of a boat engaged in transporting firearms from one place to another. Lewis, on discovering that he was pursued by the British boats, which were approaching so fast as to render it impossible to escape, was determined to give his pursuers some trouble. He ordered his men to lie flat in the bottom of the boat, while he, in defiance of the British lead, took up the firearms, one after the other, discharged them into the British boats, killing some and wounding others until he exhausted all his stock, and, being overpowered with numbers, he surrendered and was made prisoner, but soon after exchanged.

The last act which Lewis attempted while the war lasted was to blow up a British frigate. For this purpose, our hero, single-handed, provided himself a boat with the necessary articles for to operation. That he might carry his plans in execution he selected a dark night and was slowly drifting across the frigate's bow. To prevent discovery he ensconced himself in the bottom of the boat, but, notwithstanding the vigilance and diligence of our hero the enemy, having been once taken by surprise were more guarded, and fearing that stratagem might be used, and not liking the appearance of Lewis' craft, the British boats boarde him and he was made prisoner and sent to Dartmoor, where he remained during the war.

An ingenious swindle which the exchanges mention is thus conducted. A little girl accosts a man in the street and demands that he return to her the bill which she has just asked him to change. Though she has given him no such bill, she begins to cry, calls loudly for her money, excites the sympathy of the gathered crowd, and really forces the man to give her a bill as large as the one she claims to have given him. What happens when a penniless man is thus accosted is not on record.

A busy bad small boy: Master Fred Grimes of New Jersey, picked up by Brooklyn police. Thirteen years old. Record as follows: Stole $1 from his teacher. Ran away from home. Bought cigarettes. Robbed the cigar dealer's cash drawer. Bought a watch and eye glasses. Went twice to see the "Black Crook." Hired a coupe. And on being arrested told a beautiful, ingenious and interesting lie to the police.

Burlington Hawkeye: Another boy preacher is on the bills for this winter. He is forty-two years old just like the others and may be considered a pretty full-grown boy, but then, good land, a man must have some sort of a taking stage name or it doesn't have a taking look on the posters.

A visitor to a baby show down in Maine thus sums up his conclusions: "For pure unadulterated foolishness about a baby a father can 'outfoolish' all the rest of the family—yes, and I will throw in the grandmother on the mother's side, too."

FOREIGN NEWS.

FRANCE.

Gambetta's Remains in their Final Resting Place.

NICE, Jan. 14.—The funeral procession, instead of going directly to the cemetery, made a long tour of the streets, greatly to the annoyance of Gambetta's father. On arriving at the cemetery the coffin was placed on a catafalque of rather theatrical appearance, at the foot of which orations were delivered. General Dehollemans, commander of the 29th division, briefly bade a last farewell to the great patriot. The prefect said a voice from the tomb cries: "Forget barren rivalries; think of France always and only of France." After these speeches a member of Gambetta's family requested there be no more. At nightfall the crowd continued to file past the catafalque without any sign of diminishing, and Gambetta's friends, in the absence of municipal councillors, who had retired, had to interfere and order the coffin lowered into the family vault. Rain and a cold wind prevailed during the funeral.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—The government will submit to the deputies a bill conferring a life pension of 12,000 francs on the widow of Gen Chanzy.

A Bloodthirsty Captain.

LYONS, Jan. 14.—The government has directed under close arrest for a month of the captain of the army who at the recent trial of Anarchists insulted prisoners in the dock and exclaimed that he hoped he would soon have an opportunity of shooting some of them.

Several newspapers affirm that France is resolved to uphold her rights in Egypt and state the question will probably be submitted to a conference.

General Saussurri, commander of a division of troops in Algiers, was appointed to succeed General Chanzy in the command of the Sixth army corps.

That it May be Seen from Afar.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—The Paris announced the seizure in Alsace-Lorraine, of its issue of the 10th containing an article commenting strongly on the report that the Alsatian deputies to the Reichstag who attended Gambetta's funeral, be censured and expelled by the Reichstag on their return. The Paris remarks: "This is an honor, of which we are proud. The remains of Gambetta should be interred at the highest point of the cemetery here, so that the monument be visible from afar.

Right and Might.

LYONS, Jan. 15.—Prisoner Gautier, one of the anarchists, admitted he had relations with Elise Reclus, and said he had as good a right to see Reclus as Rochefort had to see Parnell, or Gambetta to see the Prince of Wales.

Americans' Respect to the Dead.

NICE, Jan. 15.—The flag on the United States consulate was draped at half mast during the funeral of Gambetta yesterday. The United States naval uniform was especially noticeable in the procession.

A Rough Voyage.

LONDON, Jan 15.—The steamer Phoenician, from Boston, for Glasgow, lost two of her crew and forty head of cattle on the voyage.

GERMANY.

Caught in the Act of Cutting Dams.

BERLIN, Jan 15.—The total number of lives lost in the vicinity of Ludwigshafen is estimated at forty-one. Stringent military measures have effectually stopped the practice of boatmen going about in boats plundering the inundated houses. Miscreants were captured near Frankenthal while trying to cut the dams, with the object of creating fresh opportunities for plunder. Soldiers repaired the mischief, thus avoiding a great disaster. The estimated losses by floods in Germany will reach eighty million marks. Six spectators of the floods were drowned near Oppenheim.

GENEVA, Jan 16.—A serious railway accident in which several persons were killed, occurred near Camerlata, Italy.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

An effort is being made to have a mail route established from Harney to Lakeview by way of Happy and Warner valleys. It is a route that is much needed. Many of the settlers living along the proposed line have to do without mail or else go from 50 to 100 miles to the nearest postoffice.

Western Oregon.

A daughter of W. H. Simmons, aged about nine years, who lives ten miles south of Salem, was very badly burned last week. It seems that the child was standing on the hearth near the fire when her clothing caught fire and before they could be extinguished she was very badly burned, so much so that there are very great doubts of the child's recovery.

Southern Oregon.

The nickel mine near Riddle, Douglas county, is showing up well as work on it progresses.

The Linkville road is in very rough condition. Three feet of snow lies on the summit of the Cascades, but there is but little on the road elsewhere.

Last Tuesday Antoine Jansen, a sailor on board the schooner James Townsend, lying in lower Coos bay, fell from the topmast, a distance of 50 or 60 feet to the deck and had his left arm badly shattered and was otherwise injured about the head and body. At the time the accident occurred, Jansen and two other men were on a triangle engaged in scraping the mast, when the rope which held Jansen's corner broke and caused him to fall. The other two men clung to the rigging and saved themselves. Jansen was speedily taken from the vessel to Empire, and the bone of Jansen's upper arm was found protruding through the flesh at the elbow and the elbow joint broken into eight pieces.

Thomas Weir, jr., a boy about 14 years of age, met with a shocking accident at Newport last Tuesday afternoon. As the cars drawn by the engine were passing through the village, young Weir undertook to jump on to the bumpers between them. He attempted to place his right foot on one of the cars, but his foot slipped, and thus his left leg was thrown under the cars, while his body was suspended between them and his right leg hanging outside the track. In this position, after his left leg had been crushed by one of the wheels and with the flange of the wheel cutting and scraping the muscles from the injured limb, Weir was dragged five or six rods. In the meantime he kept his body from going under the cars by holding on with his hands. As soon as possible the engine was stopped and the boy's leg amputated above the knee. His condition was favorable and ultimate recovery probable.

Hyde & Noble have taken a contract to furnish the piles and other timbers for the extension of the Newport railroad to the bay. The contract also includes the driving of the piles, the building of a wharf some 40 feet wide and 200 feet long at the terminus on the bay and the completion of the track ready for the iron rails. A mile and a quarter of the road will be built on piles driven 3 feet apart. About 5000 pieces of timber embracing 125,000 running feet will be used on the track and at the wharf. On the piles will be laid stringers 8 inches wide and 10 inches deep; on these stringers will be laid cedar planks 8 feet long and 2 inches thick and on these planks T rails will be laid. Flanagan & Mann will furnish the planks and Hyde & Noble will put them down as it will be necessary for them to have something of the kind on which to move their engine and pile driver. They will begin at the bay and work up the slough. Probably the wharf will be first constructed and after that the timbers for the road can be hoisted from the bay or floated along up the slough as deemed most expedient. That part of the work to be performed by Hyde & Noble will cost between $6000 and $7000 and will be completed in about five months. Their timbers they will bring from Thos Walker's land near the mouth of South slough, and Noble expects to start in with a gang of men next week and get them out within the next 60 days, and to then do the piling, etc., within the following 90 days.—Coast Mail.

WORKING MEN AND WAR.

The causes of war change from age to age. In earlier times nearly every great war had its origin in religious differences. That cause has now almost wholly passed away. But many of our modern conflicts have been inspired by much meaner and less worthy motives. The great wars of the last hundred years may nearly all be ranged under two or three heads. They have been dynastic; they have been promoted to serve the ambition of sovereigns and privileged orders, or, worse still, they have been prompted by the greed of traders and commercial speculators. Dynastic like religious, wars will speedily appear, aristocracies and oligarchies will be less potent in the future, and Mammon,

"The least erected spirit that fell from heaven."

Wide as his empire is, and many as are his devotees does not yet, and I trust never will reckon among his worshipers the working men of Britain. Whatever their faults and failings—and they have both in abundance—the democracy are never likely to be unduly influenced by mercenary considerations. They may fight for an idea, but they will not fight for territorial aggrandizement or commercial advantages. These causes of war, therefore, are likely to altogether cease to operate with constantly diminishing power in the future. How few of the popular wars within the period mentioned have met with the approval of posterity! John Stewart Mill long ago remarked that the time had come when the democracy of one country would join hands with the democracy of another rather than back their own ruling authorities in putting it down. A war like the invasion of France to suppress the first French republic would be now an impossibility. The democracy would take their stand by the side of Fox and Grey rather than by the side of Pitt and Burke. That perhaps is not saying much for democracy, since the very generation that commenced the war and with whom it was popular saw on reflection that they had committed a blunder and a crime.—Fortnightly Review.

HONEST AND LIBERAL.

When the Hops in each bottle of Hop Bitters (at the present price, at 25 per lb.) cost more than a bottle is sold for, besides the other costly medicines, and the quality and price are kept the same, we think it is honest and liberal in the proprietors, and no one should complain or buy or use worthless stuff or cheating bogus imitations because the price is less.

NO COMPROMISE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The enemies of the great moral revolution of the 19th century are jubilant, since the late elections. Even THE OREGONIAN, which claims to be a friend of law and order, cannot refrain from indulging in an occasional gibe at the seeming discomfiture which the cause of prohibition has sustained in different sections of the country. The true friends of sobriety, however, are not discouraged. With the eye of faith firmly fixed on the glorious end in view their courage does not waver at every little breeze which may blow its adverse breath in the face of their onward march to victory.

"Revolutions never go backward" is one of the ensigns which prohibition has unfurled. Let foreign proletarians, led by still meaner home-bred demagogues, understand that the decent portion of the American people propose to regulate their affairs in their own way.

Just now "High License" is the string on which the enemies (pseudo friends) of temperance are playing in such lively strains. This class of enemies argue that a heavy tax laid on the liquor traffic would close up one-half the saloons and render the remainder more respectable!! Ye Gods! more respectable!! As an illustration of this argument, these high licensists refer with great gusto to the case of Omaha. Under high license the saloons of that city have been reduced from one hundred and twenty to ninety. A great cause for congratulation indeed! Just as though ninety groggeries couldn't supply bad whisky sufficient to ruin all the youth of the city.

But this hue and cry of high license in so far as it affects the sale of liquors, is a snare and a delusion, a stop-thief cry of the whisky ring, a cunning device to divert the attention of the radicals who propose to smite King Alcohol "hip and thigh," giving and asking no quarter. Yes, this must be a fight to the death: prohibition or free whisky. Let the issue be distinctly drawn. We will have no compromise. Prohibition or free whisky is the question at issue and nothing else.

Both reason and experience teaches that crime will admit of no compromise. But say high licensists, "whisky-drinking is not a crime," neither is opium eating a crime. But when it comes to opium dens, even the whisky ring can do a little "howling." Now these opium dens and whisky shops and gambling houses and such are all of a like—cesspools from whence flow incessant streams of crime and sorrow and death. Can these festering sores of society be temporized with? When virtue dallies with vice she loses all. In dealing with evil the only effectual way is to treat it as you would a viper: chop its head off. Now that is just the way prohibitionists propose to deal with the liquor traffic. We will put the ban of the state on whisky and whisky dealers. The making of drunkards will be ranked with other crimes, and the strong arm of the law will be brought to bear on that class of offenders as on others.

Another argument and to sordid minds the most effective which the high license people advance in favor of their pet theory is the money one. High License they claim will bring much money into the treasury. The journals of Chicago argue that a $500 license fee on their 2080 saloons would pay into the city treasury $1,000,000 against the $200,000 now paid. A fitting climax to the high license theory indeed. The chink of gold to offset the groans and cries of widows and orphans, just so. These Chicago journalists coolly take up the scales and place on one side a million dollars as a balance against broken hearts and wrecked souls of rum's victims. This line of argument is so revolting to our better nature, so ghastly in its nature as to admit of no answer.

But the most common, and perhaps the most effective argument of our high-license friends is ridicule. "Visionaries," "impracticable dreamers," "fanatics," "howling cranks," and the like, are unstintingly applied to prohibitionists. The editor of THE OREGONIAN, as well as the writer, well remembers when old time abolitionists such as Whittier, Longfellow, Sumner, Phillips and other immortals were belabored with all the above precious epithets. Time has determined who were the dreamers, who the cranks.

In conclusion, we would say the great army of prohibitionists are still hopeful of the triumph of the right over wrong, and we are sorry that THE OREGONIAN cannot see the subject as we do and throw its influence on the right side. Its Herculean arm might do valiant things in the cause of humanity. But, whether it be for us or against us the great moral revolution moves on in spite of all opposing obstacles.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

MONDAY, Jan 15—9 P M.

The demand for wheat was fair to-day and prices about as on Saturday. There is a slight pressure to buy on the part of a few while others whose wants are filled are not anxious. The market may be quoted at about $1 76, although higher offers have been made. The scarcity of available wheat in the Willamette valley may send prices a little higher, but the English market will not admit of much of an advance at present unless freights can be forced downward a peg or two, a state of affairs not likely to occur. A cargo of Oregon wheat 90 days out in an iron vessel was sold a few days since at 47s 6d, equal to $1 71¼ spot free on board here.

Freights are dull. It is not likely that many more vessels will be chartered before the new crop comes in as better rates are expected then. There are but two vessels now on the way here without cargoes. It is reported that a vessel has been taken to load lumber here for South America.

British Grain Market.

LONDON, Jan 15.—The Mark Lane Express, reviewing the British grain trade during the past week, says: The weather has been decidedly more favorable for outdoor work. The demand for wheat at the close was slack and disappointed buyers resisted the advance. Foreign wheat was dull, although the market closed somewhat better. Of cargoes there were only sales of two of Chicago spring at 39s 4d and 1 at 40s. The market is nearly bare. There was a better inquiry for futures.

Shipping Notes.

Br bk Eskdale has cleared from Astoria for Liverpool with 66,195 bushels wheat, valued at $87,987.

Am ship Henry Villard moved up to the east side dock yesterday, above the railroad ferry landing.

Am ship Helicon moved over to Albina yesterday afternoon and is now lying close to the Lutterworth.

Am bk Elsinore is at Flanders' wharf discharged. Her main hatch will be repaired and her deck recaulked, both being somewhat injured by the large pieces of machinery taken out while lying at the east side.

Am ship Corsica has just commenced to open her mainhold containing some 200 tons of coal, besides a large quantity of merchandise. She has discharged a large quantity of her cargo and so far it is in good condition.

Tug Pioneer arrived from Astoria last evening and will probably be here two weeks repairing. She will put on a new house and have her wheel repaired, which was broken not long since on her way over the bar.

Br bk Lanarkshire was towed up the river to Greenwich dock early yesterday afternoon to the place lately occupied by the Ger bk Priscilla, which is now at the warehouse below the railroad ferry landing on the east side.

Memoranda.

Per Br bk James Livesey—Left Liverpool Aug 19. After leaving, until the N E trades were met had moderate weather. Received the N E trades Aug 26, 31 deg N 15 deg W. Lost them in 12 deg N 25 deg 30 min W. The trades were moderately fresh and from 12 deg N to 7 deg N, had northerly and nor'westerly winds. From this to the line had light southerly winds and calms. Crossed the line Sept 19, 20 deg 42 min W. Got fresh S E trades soon after crossing the line, and lost them in 19 deg S. Rounded the cape Oct. 29, 72 days out. Had head winds two or three days before reaching Cape Horn. Took 20 days to double the cape from 50 deg S in Atlantic to 50 deg S in Pacific. From the cape to the line in the Pacific had very moderate weather with strong trades. Crossed the line in the Pacific Dec 2, 115 deg 50 min W, 106 days out. Encountered very fresh N E trades 31 deg N, Dec 15. After leaving the trades had broken, squally weather. Off Cape Foulweather met with some heavy gales and high seas. Arrived off bar Dec 25, and took pilot next day. Had a very heavy gale during the night, lay off until the 30th December when she was towed in by the Pioneer. Discharged part of her cargo at Astoria, mainly tin and salt. Left Astoria Jan 11 and arrived in Portland Jan 13, 8 P M. Now at the Mersey dock, waiting further orders.

HUMILITY.

Grief lives in the estate of kings,
And care will seek a haughty place.
Joy comes to dwell with cottage things,
And happiness the swallows chase
When grasses wave on dewy lawn,
And opens the great lid of dawn.

Childhood and joy are with us still,
Though fortune frown upon our state,
The feet of Spring return to fill
The rounding fruit whate'er our fate,
And still the summer's cloudless blue
Opens to let the white birds through.

Then climb not toward the seats of a throne,
A canopy must veil the sky;
From the green field we do not own
We yet may watch the wild larks fly,
There shall remain the sweet heaven
Once unto the child heart given.

—[illegible]

LEWIS CRAFF.

BY AN OLD TAR.

Although too much credit cannot be lavished upon those revolutionary nobles, who have almost entirely passed from our midst, yet with all due deference to their memory allow me to record the valiant deeds of a common jack tar, who has passed away unhonored.

Lewis Craff, of Marblehead, Mass., whose demise was occasioned by the upsetting of a boat in the year 1816, was a thoroughbred seaman, a true-hearted sailor, a better man ever trod the planks of a ship's deck. He was an able-bodied seaman, ever ready and willing to perform his duties, no matter how severe or what the craft he sailed in, even from the largest war-ship down to a fishing smack, he was able to do his duty.

Lewis was one of those daring adventurers who composed that boat's crew at Tripoli, under the command of the gallant Decatur, when they boarded and destroyed the American frigate Philadelphia, which had been captured while ashore, previous to their setting her on fire.

In the war with Great Britain, in 1812, we met our hero on board of the privateer Alexander, closely engaged with a strongly-armed British merchantman, richly laden with dry goods. In the midst of the engagement, when the battle was raging the fiercest, and the cannon balls flying the thickest, we find the undaunted Lewis stationed at a gun, coolly surveying the scene, now with his hand on the breech, patting the war-dog with the simple language of a child; then saying, as the match was applied and the gun fired, "Now talk to her like a father," as soon as the smoke cleared away, watching to see if his shot had taken effect. He had the satisfaction of seeing the enemy surrender, but the ship, not being immediately taken possession of, escaped in the darkness of the night, and this, too for want of vigilance on the part of the officer who was stationed on the lookout; in consequence of this apathy they lost their prize. The escape of so valuable a ship, after so much hard fighting, did not satisfy the stomachs of the privateersmen, Lewis among the number, not expecting to be treated with such unpalatable food, swore emphatically, by the knot of a hard-pine plank, that he should quit the company, never again to sail with an officer whose cowardice made him tremble at his own shadow; but he should go and join Uncle Sam where fighting was to be done.

The next place in which we find Lewis is on board the frigate United States, commanded by Stephen Decatur. Lewis was in the battle when the Macedonian surrendered, and behaved most courageously. There were no other Marblehead men there who shared the honors of that glorious day which silenced the war dogs of Johnny Bull.

Lewis was the favorite of all on board, and no matter how high or low their station, he always addressed them by their Christian names. On one occasion, when the battle was raging fiercely between the contending vessels, Lewis being stationed at a gun on the quarter-deck, called the Black Vomit, of which he had the care and in his own familiar manner:

"Now, Black Vomit, puke it up."

In a moment more they discovered that the Macedonian's mizzenmast had been shot away. Lewis, perceiving what had been done, slapped Decatur on the shoulder, saying:

"Now, Stephen, we have made a brig of her."

The response which came from the commodore was:

"Aim a little more at the yellow streak; my object is to get the vessel into port."

Soon after this the papers had the pleasure of announcing the arrival of the frigate United States, with her prize, at Norfolk.

Again we find Lewis ashore at liberty in the city of Washington, but attached to the little Adams frigate. When he came on board, whom should he encounter but the sailing-master, who had joined the ship while Lewis was on shore. Lewis, not liking this officer's appearance, said in a free manner:

"Jack of Clubs, where did you come from, for I never had the misfortune of seeing you before."

This abrupt remark, which Lewis uttered with composure, offended and wounded the pride of the arrogant officer, and he was so wrought upon that he immediately ordered Lewis in irons, notwithstanding the remonstrances against it of other officers, who were more familiar with Lewis' ways.

"I'll teach the rascal better manners," said the sailing master, "before he's much older."

Soon after this Captain Morris, in company with Commodore Decatur came on board, and, having learned the difficulty between Lewis and the sailing master, Captain Morris ordered Lewis' release.

Lewis, being freed from the shackles which manacled him, was asked by Decatur what he had been doing.

"I will tell you, Stephen," said Lewis. "When I came on board this morning I found this dandy officer strutting fore and aft the deck, under a heavy press of sail. Not liking his antics, I called him Jack of Clubs, which so displeased him that he ordered the ruffles on my wrists. They don't suit me, Stephen, and it is the first time in my life I was compelled to wear bracelets. I don't like the trinkets. I hate to be decorated with such ornaments; neither do I wish to sail, Stephen, in the same ship with that Jack of Clubs. I will cut the tie-strings of his acquaintance, and part with him forever. I had rather founder than be again compelled to yaw off into the gulf-stream of indiscretion."

After Lewis' separation from the Jack of Clubs, we find our hero engaged in a boat engaged in transporting firearms from one place to another. Lewis, on discovering that he was pursued by the British boats, which were approaching so fast as to render it impossible to escape, was determined to give his pursuers some trouble. He ordered his men to lie flat in the bottom of the boat, while he, in defiance of the British load, took up the firearms, one after the other, discharged them into the British boats, killing some and wounding others, until he exhausted all his stock, and, being overpowered with numbers, he surrendered and was made prisoner, but soon after exchanged.

The last act which Lewis attempted while the war lasted was to blow up a British frigate. For this purpose, our hero, single-handed, provided himself a boat, with the necessary articles for the operation. That he might carry his plans in execution, he selected a dark night, and was slowly drifting across the frigate's bow. To prevent discovery he ensconced himself in the bottom of the boat, but, notwithstanding the vigilance and willingness of our hero, the enemy, having been once taken by surprise, were more guarded, and fearing that stratagem might be used, and not liking the appearance of Lewis' craft, the British boats boarded him, and he was made prisoner and sent to Dartmoor, where he remained during the war.

An ingenious swindle which the exchanges mention is thus conducted: A little girl accosts a man in the street and demands that he return to her the bill which she has just asked him to change. Though she has given him no such bill, she begins to cry, calls loudly for her money, excites the sympathy of the gathered crowd, and really forces the man to give her a bill as large as the one she claims to have given him. What happens when a penniless man is thus accosted is not on record.

A busy bad small boy. Master Fred Grimes, of New Jersey, picked up by Brooklyn police. Thirteen years old. Record as follows: Stole $1 from his teacher. Ran away from home. Bought cigarettes. Robbed the cigar dealer's cash drawer. Bought a watch and eye glasses. Went twice to see the "Black Crook." Hired a coupe. And on being arrested told a beautiful, ingenious and interesting lie to the police.

Burlington Hawkeye: Another boy preacher is on the bills for this winter. He is forty-two years old, just like the others and may be considered a pretty full grown boy; but, then, good land, a man must have some sort of a striking stage name, or it doesn't have a taking look on the posters.

A Rough Voyage.

LONDON, Jan. 15. The steamer Phoenician, from Boston for Glasgow, lost two of her crew and forty head of cattle on the voyage.

GERMANY.

Caught in the Act of Cutting Dams.

BERLIN, Jan. 15. The total number of lives lost in the vicinity of Ludwigshafen is estimated at forty. One. Stringent military measures have effectually stopped the practice of bondsmen going about in boats plundering the inundated houses. Miscreants were captured near Frankenthal while trying to cut the dams, with the object of creating fresh opportunities for plunder. Soldiers repaired the mischief, thus avoiding a great disaster. The estimated losses by floods in Germany will reach eighty million marks. Six spectators of the floods were drowned near Oppenheim.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

An effort is being made to have a mail route established from Harney to Lakeview, by way of Happy and Warner valleys. It is a route that is much needed. Many of the settlers living along the proposed line have to do without mail or else go from 60 to 100 miles to the nearest postoffice.

Western Oregon.

A daughter of W. H. Simmons, aged about nine years, who lives ten miles south of Salem, was very badly burned last week. It seems that the child was standing on the hearth near the fire, when her clothing caught fire, and before they could be extinguished, she was very badly burned, so much so that there are very great doubts of the child's recovery.

Southern Oregon.

The nickel mine near Riddle, Douglas county, is showing up well as work on it progresses.

The Linkville road is in very rough condition. Three feet of snow lies on the summit of the Cascades, but there is but little on the road elsewhere.

Last Tuesday Antone Jansen, a sailor on board the schooner James Townsend, lying in Coos bay, fell from the topmast, a distance of 40 or 50 feet, to the deck, and had his left arm badly shattered and was otherwise injured about the head and body. At the time the accident occurred, Jansen and two other men were on a triangle engaged in scraping the mast, when the rope which held Jansen's corner broke and caused him to fall. The other two men clung to the rigging and saved themselves. Jansen was speedily taken from the vessel to Empire, and the bone of Jansen's upper arm was found protruding through the flesh at the elbow and the elbow joint broken into eight pieces.

Thomas Weir, jr., a boy about 14 years of age, met with a shocking accident at Newport last Tuesday afternoon. As the cars, drawn by the engine, were passing through the village, young Weir undertook to jump on to the bumpers between them. He attempted to place his right foot on one of the cars, but his foot slipped, and thus his left leg was thrown under the cars, while his body was suspended between them and his right leg hanging outside the track. In this position, after his left leg had been crushed by one of the wheels, and with the flange of the wheel cutting and scraping the muscles from the injured limb, Weir was dragged five or six rods. In the meantime he kept his body from going under the cars by holding on with his hands. As soon as possible the engine was stopped and the boy's leg amputated above the knee. His condition was favorable and ultimate recovery probable.

Hyde & Noble have taken a contract to furnish the piles and other timbers for the extension of the Newport railroad to the bay. The contract also includes the driving of the piles, the building of a wharf some 40 feet wide and 200 feet long at the terminus on the bay, and the completion of the track ready for the iron rails. A mile and a quarter of the road will be built on piles driven 8 feet apart. About 5000 pieces of timber, embracing 125,000 running feet, will be used on the track and at the wharf. On the piles will be laid stringers 8 inches wide and 10 inches deep; on these stringers will be laid cedar planks 8 feet long and 2 inches thick, and on these planks T rails will be laid. Flanagan & Mann will furnish the planks, and Hyde & Noble will put them down, as it will be necessary for them to have something of the kind on which to move their engine and pile driver. They will begin at the bay and work up the slough. Probably the wharf will be first constructed, and after that the timbers for the road can be hoisted from the baylor floated along up the slough, as deemed most expedient. That part of the work to be performed by Hyde & Noble will cost between $6000 and $7000, and will be completed in about five months. Their timbers they will bring from Thos. Walker's land, near the mouth of South slough, and Noble expects to start in with a gang of men next week and get them out within the next 90 days, and to then do the driving, etc., within the following 90 days. Coast Mail.

WORKING MEN AND WAR.

The causes of war change from age to age. In earlier times nearly every great war had its origin in religious differences. That cause has now almost wholly passed away. But many of our modern conflicts have been inspired by much meaner and less worthy motives. The great wars of the last hundred years may nearly all be ranged under two or three heads. They have been dynastic; they have been promoted to serve the ambition of sovereigns and privileged orders; or, worse still, they have been prompted by the greed of traders and commercial speculators. Dynastic, like religious, wars will speedily disappear; aristocracies and oligarchies will be less potent in the future; and Mammon,

"The least erected spirit that fell from heaven,"

Wide as his empire is, and many as are his devotees, does not yet, and I trust never will, reckon among his worshipers the working men of Britain. Whatever their faults and failings—and they have both in abundance—the democracy are never likely to be unduly influenced by mercenary considerations. They may fight for an idea, but they will not fight for territorial aggrandizement or commercial advantages. These causes of war, therefore, are likely to altogether cease to operate with constantly diminishing power in the future. How few of the popular wars within the period mentioned have met with the approval of posterity! John Stewart Mill long ago remarked that the time had come when the democracy of one country would join hands with the democracy of another rather than back their own ruling authorities in putting it down. A war like the invasion of England to support the first French republic would be now an impossibility. The democracy would take its stand by the side of Fox and Grey rather than by the side of Pitt and Burke. That perhaps is not saying much for democracy, since the very generation that commenced the war, and with whom it was popular, now condemn it in the [illegible] they had [illegible] and [illegible]. Fortnightly Review.

HONEST AND LIBERAL.

When the Hop Bitters Co. [illegible] Hop Bitters at the present price [illegible] [illegible] honest and [illegible].

NO COMPROMISE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The troubles of the great moral revolution of the 19th century are patient, even the late elections. Even THE OREGONIAN, which claims to be a friend of law and order, cannot refrain from [illegible] an occasional gibe at the [illegible] which the [illegible] has [illegible] different sections of the country. The final triumph of [illegible] however, are not [illegible]

[illegible]

But it has been a part of the license system, so far as it [illegible] has had a [illegible] in the [illegible] [illegible] Yes, they [illegible] right to the death [illegible] Let the issue be distinctly drawn. We will have no compromise. Prohibition or free whisky is the present issue, and no compromise.

Both reason and experience teach that crime will admit of no compromise. [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] opium dens, even the whisky [illegible] Now these opium dens and whisky shops and gambling hells and such are all of a like [illegible] cess-pools from which flow noxious streams of crime and sorrow and death. Can these festering sores of society be temporized with? When virtue dallies with vice she loses all. In dealing with evil, the only effective way is to treat it as we would a viper, chop its head off. Now that is just the way prohibitionists propose to deal with the liquor traffic. We would put the hand of the state on whisky and whisky sellers. The making of drunkards would be ranked with other crimes, and the strong arm of the law will be brought to bear on the class of offenders as others.

Another argument, and to us the silliest, the most effective which the high license people advance in favor of their pet theory is the money one. High License, they claim, will bring much money into the treasury. The journals of Chicago argue that a $500 license fee on their 3000 saloons would pay into the city treasury $1,500,000 against the $200,000 now paid. Thus many to [illegible] high license theory [illegible] The cheap of gold to offset the groans and cries of widows and orphans, just seen. These Chicago journals simply take up the scales and place on one side a million dollars as a balance against broken hearts and wrecked souls of rum's victims. The line of argument is so revolting to our better nature, so ghastly in its nature as to admit of no answer.

But the most common, and perhaps the most effective argument of our high license friends is ridicule. "Visionaries," "impracticable dreamers," "fanatics," "howling cranks," and the like, are unstintingly applied to prohibitionists. The editor of THE OREGONIAN, as well as the writer, well remembers when abolition champions such as Whittier, Longfellow, Sumner, Phillips and their supporters were labeled with the above epithets and others. Time has determined who were the "dreamers," who the cranks.

In conclusion, we would say, the great army of prohibitionists are still hopeful of the triumph of the right over wrong and we are sorry that THE OREGONIAN cannot see the end as we do, and throw its influence on the right side. Its excellent arm might do valiant things to the cause of humanity. But, whether THE OREGONIAN is opposed, the great moral revolution moves on in spite of all opposing obstacles.

MONDAY, Jan. 15—3 P. M.

The demand for wheat was fair to-day and prices about as on Saturday. There is still buyers are to buy on the part of a few, while others whose wants are filled are not anxious. The rates may be quoted at about $1 72, although some offers have been made. The scarcity of available wheat in the Willamette valley may send prices a little higher, but the English market will stand none of much of an advance at present unless freights can be forced downward a peg or two, a state of affairs not likely to occur. A cargo of Cocoa Wheat, 30 days out, in an iron vessel, was sold a few days since at 45s 6d, equal to $1 72 spot, free of local labor.

Freights are dull. It is not likely that many more vessels will be chartered before the new crop comes in, as better rates are expected then. There are but two vessels now on the way here without cargoes. It is reported that a vessel has been taken to load lumber here for South America.

British Grain Market.

LONDON, Jan. 15. The Mark Lane Express, reviewing the British grain trade during the past week, says: The weather has been generally more favorable for out-door work. The trade for wheat at the close was slack and disappointed buyers resisted the advance. Foreign wheat was dull, although the market closed somewhat better. Of cargoes there were only sales of two of Chicago spring at 40s 9d and 41s 6d. The market is nearly bare. There was a better inquiry for futures.

Memoranda.

Per Br bk James Livesey, 145 days from Liverpool. [illegible] after leaving, until the N. E. trades were met, had moderate weather. Received the N. E. trades Aug. 16, 26 deg. N., 26 deg. W. Lost them in 12 deg. N., 25 deg. 30 min. W. The trades were moderately fresh and from 12 deg. N. to 7 deg. N.; had northerly and northwesterly winds. From this to the line had light southerly winds and calms. Crossed the line Sept. 1 [illegible] and fresh S. E. trades soon after crossing the line, and lost them in 20 deg. S. Rounded the cape Oct. 23, 72 days out. Had head winds two or three days before reaching Cape Horn. Took [illegible] days to double the cape from 50 deg. S. in Atlantic to 50 deg. S. in Pacific. From the cape to the [illegible] in the Pacific had very moderate weather with strong trades. Crossed the line in the Pacific Dec. 2, [illegible] days out. Encountered very fresh N. E. trades [illegible] After leaving the trades had broken, squally weather. Off Cape Foulweather met with some heavy gales and high seas. Arrived off bar Dec. 28, and took pilot next day. Had a very heavy gale during the night, lay off until the 30th December, when she was towed in by the Pioneer. Discharged part of her cargo at Astoria, mainly tin and salt, left Astoria Jan. 11, and arrived in Portland Jan. 13, 8 P. M. Now at the Mersey dock, waiting further orders.
